January Prophecy 1932

ON THIS particular Wednesday of the noble year 1952, the city room of the Chicago Morning Television was the scene of unusual activity, stir, and bustle. The city editor, Dorothy Manley, had just received a tip that Janet Smiley, the great American prima donna, had just departed from Paris in her new air speedster, and would be due in New York in one hour. Of course, so prominent a person must be received by the press, so Hilda Grob, our star reporter, had to leave for New York immediately. The air highways were so crowded that she traveled by way of the new torpedo tunnel, completed only last week by Sherwin Chase, the great inventor.

Hilda no sooner boarded the torpedo, when we received a message that Frances Tambascio, La Smiley's bitter rival, was also returning to her native land, and that they would both be at the flying field at approximately the same hour! Well—that sounded like a good story, so away we went to cover it.

But evidently our journey wasn't to be a joyous one, because I, in my haste, forgot to look at the gas tank before taking off, so we had gone but a few miles when our monoplane sputtered, coughed apologetically, cleared its throat and stopped. Miles ahead was the next station. There seemed no other course but to make our plane fast to the sky-hook, strap on our parachutes that were to enable us to walk ahead for fuel. I must add, in passing, that this convenient parachute was given to the world by Francis Drake, Chase's co-worker.

The station reached, we were pleased to see that it was none other than the Kirkendale Oil company, and the owner, Mary Vidmar, came forward to serve us personally. While flying us back to our plane with the gasoline, she very kindly poured into our receptive ears much gossip of our former classmates.

She announced, among other things, that Helen Lundblad and Eleanor Hepker had opened rival fashion concerns in Detroit. Ruth Aurada, one of our foremost mannequins was to display the creations at the house of "Helene," while the equally famous Gertrude Peacock exploited the products of Eleanor's talent at her "Salon de Jordanne."

We, in turn, related that "back in the old home town," Shaw and Heights were to play a charity game, with such famous alumnae as John Wellman, Jim Carter, and Don Williams starring. Everett Retter and Cecil Quigley, of the same class, were to lead the cheers. Marion Wollet was to be in charge of all business details of this big sports event. We assured our eager listener that all the famous sports writers would be there, including the one and only Georgia Illingworth.

By this time, we had reached our craft, so we bade Mary goodbye and in a short while arrived at the field in New York just in time to take pictures of an exchange of temperament between our two prima donnas. After sending these back to Chicago, we agreed to attend a revue while we were at liberty.

Accordingly, we journeyed to the new Theater of the Air, under the management of Owen Lockwood, who produces his own plays and sketches. We were directed to our seats by none other than Ralph Smith, the head usher. As we sat down, the orchestra, under the leadership of Julius Spilka, opened the program with a selection from the new opera by Marguerite Fehlnar.

As the curtain rose upon the first act, we perceived Marjorie Curth and Martha Kast in the dancing chorus. The feminine lead was portrayed by Ruth Richards; Claude Harp played opposite; and the cast included Juanita McIntosh, Frances Manillo, and Phillip Disbro.

After the play, we flew over to a Long Is'and supper club. And, my dears, imagine our surprise to find our genial host to be Donald Groce, the modern Adonis! As he ushered us to a table near the orchestra, we remarked that the style of playing seemed familiar, and we were right. It was Johnny Whitaker and his Ohioans.

The lights were suddenly dimmed, and Marie Blank stepped into the spotlight to present her latest interpretive dance. At the table across from us, we beheld Marion Willow and Amanda Shack deep in an argument about prohibition. They were still engrossed when we left so the outcome is unknown.

When we reached our plane we immediately saw that our automatic telephone had recorded a message from Manley. We were to take off for San Francisco at once to interview Dorothy Miller, the "Kathleen Norris" of today. She was to leave for Japan in three hours, and it was our job to see her before she boarded the Airliner.

SHUTTLE

We decided that we had time for a swim at the airport pool, back at the field. Who do you think met us at the desk? Audrey Geitz, another old Shaw pal. In exchanging news with her we discovered that Page Brownfield owned a huge chain of drug-stores back in Cleveland. Doris Carman and Dorothy Blough were at swords points over a question of economics in Mars, and that each girl remained adamant in her refusal to consider the other's opinion. Mary Habecker now owns the Habecker Airplane Motors company, and is so wealthy that she has to ride from home to office in an armored car.

Marjorie Urban has opened a tea shoppe wherein she tells fortunes by means of television communication with the other world. And of course we all know how desperately Albert Martin is trying to prove a new hypothesis of the world's origin.

And girls! Pay attention! Have you tried the new Margaret La Torraca Facial Cream? All of the professional women use it and endorse it. You can be sure of its purity, for La Torraca herself superintended its composition.

Meanwhile, it was growing late so we decided we had better start back to the office in order to obtain the latest edition of the Television before it went into circulation. Just at the point where the ride back was becoming monotonous, we noticed someone wildly signalling to us. Supposing it to be some passing pianist in distress, we pulled over nearer the plane to find, not someone demanding help but none other than Mary "El" Wilkison waving a friendly greeting in our direction. She just happened to be taking a spin in her newest autogiro, the one which she piloted when she broke the speed record formerly held by Virginia Beck. While we were chatting with her she told us she had just dined at a most delightful new sky restaurant owned by the prosperous Eugene Smayda and David Romberger. The genial head-waiter, Waring Fitch nodded to her as she passed. Upon looking around, to her dismay and pleasure she recognized the crew of waiters to include the ever efficient Edward Schulze, Jimmy Walker, Joseph Ycndell and Wilson McCaw. As she was leaving the establishment, she saw two strangely familiar faces who turned out to be those of the sweet-voiced check girls, Catherine Anglin and Willa Neilon.

What was that? Oh—we were being rudely disturbed by much honking so we bade the sports-woman farewell and continued to the office which was now in plain sight.

After parking our little craft some distance from the building, we managed to obtain a copy of the latest paper. Well! Well! I do believe I see the pictures of three old Shawites—and on the front page, too! They are photographs of the four aspiring reform leaders, Arvilla Skinner, Alma Tufts, Mona Cretney, and Vera Innes who were all heroically rescued from a huge apartment blaze through the unceasing efforts of fire chief Roy Heyd. The fire alarm was turned in by those confirmed bachelors Charles Longsdorf, William Leppig, and William Campbell, who occupy a nearby suite.

This is interesting indeed! Let's look through more of the paper, we might acquire some more enlightening information concerning our old pals.

Why yes, of course! Here in the rotogravure section is a picture of Bertha Frew, world-renowned novelist and speaker who is being kind enough to autograph copies of her latest popular book for some of her enthusiastic admirers; Warren Solt, Ernest Allsopp and Martin Glickman. Here on the sports page is an article about Bill Pfahl the modern Babe Ruth of the baseball world. It seems he has just visited a children's hospital where he gave all the patients baseballs decorated with his signature. His manager is Ralph Neiderst.

Scanning the pages further, we find that William Barrow, prominent physiologist, and his co-worker, Marguerite Baker, have made a startling discovery in the interests of science. They have revealed a new life prolonging serum which when administered will increase one's life from five to ten years.

What's this on the woman's page? Advice to the lovelorn is rendered by Bonnie Beatty known for her sympathetic and broadminded counsel. Oh! There are illustrations and cartoons from the skilled pen of James Boylan.

Heavens! Here's another story about some radicals. The story seems novel. Let's read it! Can you imagine it? Jack McCorkle, John Moore, Eleanor Schmitt, Mary Chamberlain and Thelma Swisher are all leaders of a revolutionary movement against the old six-hour school day at their alma mater. They advocate a three-hour day with no homework. Here's hoping their plans succeed! The leaders against the idea are some Shaw teachers who were former class-mates of the radicals, they are: Emmy Lou Cable, Jeanette Hazen, Leona Greenwald, Julian Hatch and Douglas Steine. It is rumored, also, that the class of 1932 so loved their school that many of them are now filling important offices there. Edith Weinberg, Mary Ruth Rubin and Betty Ridgley are now the ever efficient and observing secretaries in the main office. Don Reynard is principal of Shaw, while Dorothy Young is assistant principal. Bert Vogt signs the boys' absence excuses, and Nellie McCaslin has charge of the girls'. Can it be true? But then, it is. We are told that the cafeteria has been remodeled so as to resemble an outdoor terrace where everyone is served and the atmosphere is such that all thoughts of school routine are forgotten at lunch hour. This clever arrangement was originated by those three foresighted gentlemen: George Sweitzer, Leonard Ebert, and Harvey Pettit. Wilmon Arey, and George Sandison supervise things to see that the leisurely attitude is constantly maintained. Oh! yes to carry out the scheme further Sallie Grammar and Marion Hill are the Shaw Cafeteria hostesses.

Hmmm! I can't seem to find anything else in this edition, about old friends. By the way, what time is it? Heavens—not that late surely! We must get back to the office. Ah! At last we're here. Any more assignments, chief? No? Hooray! C'mon, let's go!

Dorothy Manley.

Hall of Fame

MAY 1, 3019: Our excavators have succeeded in deciphering another one of the pages of the magazine found among the ruins of ancient Cleveland. In this high-school annual the following "immortals of January, '32" are listed:

1. Emmy Lou Cable, because she has naturally curly hair that resembles a permanent.
2. George Sweitzer, if for no other reason than that he ranks first in scholastic ability. (Other reasons on request.)
3. James Boylan, second editor-in-chief of the Observer, because he was the Chess Club.
4. Nellie McCaslin, because she has a talent for self-expression (and the teachers approve!)
5. Georgia Illingworth, because of her collection of sports letters.
6. Charles Longsdorf, because he has such a wide range of activities.
7. Bonnie Beatty, because she has held down a job on a regular newspaper for over a year.
8. Wilson McCaw, because of the original way in which he gets out of his seat.
9. Mary Eleanor Wilkison, because she could be a gym teacher now if knowledge alone counted.
10. William (Scotty) Campbell, because he must be rather popular to be chosen class president.
11. Janet Smiley, because of her lovely complexion.
12. Johnny Moore, because his bare knees on "kid day" were enough to make anybody famous.
13. William Schott, because he beat James Boylan's absence average.
14. Marjorie Curth, because she imitates people so cleverly.
15. Mona Cretney, because she seems born to be an officer in clubs.
16. Mary Chamberlin, because she has such a jolly smile.

Helen Tarasov, '32.

Prophecy for the Class of June, 1932

For explanation of new words, refer to Charles Kastilahn's advanced dictionary published in 1949.

IT WAS June, 1952, when I met who I thought was the only surviving member of the June class of '32. You see, while flying down Euclid my plane grazed the side of a building and the "cop" very politely asked me whether I thought I was Mussolini's grandson or what. I looked at her.

"Evelyn," I shouted, "don't you remember me?"

She did—and after a while told me that she was engaged in writing a history of our class. She said she was in the habit of going to a Yogi mystic named Dorothea MacGregor who had a suite of offices on the 75th floor of the new Cleveland Trust building. Evelyn told me that if I wished to accompany her I should learn something I had never known before. Of course I accepted—my insatiable curiosity! As we entered the lobby of the building a few hours later, we noticed a bronze plaque on which something was engraved.

"What a class that was," exclaimed Evelyn pausing before the tablet, and reading: "Architect, Eleanor McCann; builder, Charles Mathivet; structural engineer, Esther Murphy." When we arrived at the Yogi's offices, she looked at us impassively, then said, "Yougo oopi ulli hooi," and motioned us to sit at a table on which was a crystal globe. She peered intently into it and finally said in a monotonous sing-song, "I see the Public Square.

"Standing on a soap-box near the statue of ex mayor Joe Bondi is Robert Colville who has become a disciple of Ghandi and is emulating him even in matters of dress. He is angrily arguing with G. Warden Clark's back while Mr. Clark is placidly painting a billboard announcing the coming of the "Greatest Show on Earth—Jane Daker's Circus." Grouped about Colville are other Ghandians among whom I see Ruth Blough, Betty Broadbent, Betty Manley, Lillian Kellberg, Dorothy Polatsek, Jane Tufts, Marie Weiss, Lucille Whitacre, Barnett Horwitz, and Raymond Yarosh — all clad in some modified Ghandi costumes.

The new thirty floor Higbee Co. store has just opened. In the tea room on the 25th floor are Ruth Green, Vivian Dean, Ruth Cada and Jean McIntosh, acting as mannequins. They are showing the ladies the latest in "pahjahmahs" and "bahthing" suits. Among the waitresses in the cafe on the 2nd floor I see Mary Vary, Alice Brown, Rose Buluckian, Margaret Haker and Marion Ebert; Dorothy Davies is in the jewelry department. Mabel Cartner is trying to sell perfumes and powder but most ladies now prefer paint, and all hardware stores employ a good lip and cheek painter. Beatrice Beach is selling lace hankies to a portly old gentleman with luxurious black whiskers. In the Beauty Parlor, Alvina Grinke and Clara Fisher, finger nail experts, and Florence Langer, eyebrow specialist, are waiting for victims.

Now I see something going very slowly—ah—a street car! Betty Lusk and Lyman Davidson—who are going to the circus—are sitting together looking at "Ballyhoo," while Dorothy Gorrell and Arthur Brown are looking over their shoulders and giggling. Now the car comes to a place where the tracks are being repaired—it's on St. Clair, by the way — and among the bricklayers I see Emil Reiner, John Young, Bernard Rothkopf, Harriet Streitzel, and Beatrice Wilson. H'm, evidently woman is now really equal to man. All they need now are whiskers! Well, on the sidewalk are Donald Baker and Elsie Bernardy hard at work watching the others. Robert Darr, the conductor, looks out and makes a few scathing remarks at which Elsie throws a brick at him — but misses. Just like a woman! At the circus I see Robert Guthrie, the "wild" man from Jazzmania—a suburb of Tasmania—and, can this be true?—Anna Henckel is a snake charmer! Thomas Hartleb and Ethel Ferris are yodeling "Pee-ee-nuts" at the top of their lungs. Now—and the Yogi smiled — I see into the tent. Theresa Weber, Kenneth Sonville, Madeline Smith, and David Schneider are dancing a rumba on the tight rope; while James Fried, the ringmaster, and Jack Kibby, the strong man regard them anxiously. Hah! These clowns are really funny. Let's see; there' Betty Lee, Jack Swartz, Harvey Murette, Jean McCorkle, and Shirley Koepf.

Now we are going up Euclid—55th, 79th, 105th, ah—here we are—Severance Hall. Well, well — here are Helen Avery and Louane Nearon crying over the bee-oo-tiful music; and there are Hazel

SHUTTLE

Markley, Ruth Riegelman, Gertrude Rose, and Edna Rowland. Too bad! Are there no male music lovers? The ushers, Antoinette Biello, Lucile Heckman, Ruth Engle, Mary Martin, Harriet Kinsner, Hazel Johnson, Dorothy McClemens and Dorothy Stuart, after herding the audience into their seats in record time, are gossiping with Carl Heinisch, the magnificent doorman, who is describing the gowns worn by the society dames. The orchestra, under the direction of Charles Moore, is playing something ultra-modern. Among the players I see Marion Reindel and George Steffner sawing on violins, Assuntine Petillo languidly playing a harp, Carl Riewaldt puffing into a trumpet, Alice Winter blithely playing a flute, and Ellen Garnett struggling with a bass viol. Virginia Kinnison, a concert soprano, is waiting in the wings for her cue. In the ballet are Irene Civiletti, Catherine Church, Betty Maxwell, Wallace Marsh and Norbert Kniefel. And by the way, this evening the new play by Lois Bitterlich, "Morning Becomes Electric," will be presented for the first time. It stars Elaine Sheets, Ada Forsythe and James Goulder; while in the cast are Jean Wilcox, Dale Hoon, and Eleanor Muhlhan. Before the play will be a recitation by the nature poet, Donald Cook. But what's this I see? George Backhaus, leader of the stage hands' union and the radical members including John Byrnes, George Freeman, and James Gould, are marching to the Hall to stop the performance. They seem to be striking as a protest against lengthening of the two-hour day. Tsk! Tsk! Hurrah! Someone has telephoned, and our gallant police under Sergeant Ruth Starrett have come to put a stop to the demonstration of the infuriated stage hands. Among the sturdy minions of the law are Bob Stepp, Helen Pulford, Marlin Richards and Mary Louise Robb.

Now I see a great crowd. Ah, it's the Shaw stadium which seats 75,000. And alack and alas, I also see a small house near it. Eugene Gleason is tottering down the front stairs carrying a grand piano on his head while Gretchen Nobis, a down and out piano teacher stands wringing her hands and crying, "O, bring back my pee-a-no, O bring back my piano to me." The game is about to begin but the players wait until Superintendent of Schools, Donald Gottron, is seated. The alumni team is composed of Joseph Hughes, Thomas Glass, William Conkle, Fred Beech, Stewart Adams, William Best, Robert George, Henry Dumont, Joseph Cole, Clarence Bundy and Paul Friedlander. The referee is William Meltzer. Looking ahead a bit, I see that the alumni will get a terrible beating whereupon they will give ditto to poor Meltzer; however, he is an experienced referee and has an ambulance driven by Richard Klein waiting for him just outside the gates. Sanford Sugarman, who has developed into the worst type of "shyster" lawyer, is going to chase them hoping something awful will happen—but with Klein at the wheel there's not a chance.

Since Mr. Sugarman was formerly a member of Shaw's track team, he retains his customary composure when he reaches the Public Square Hospital where the world famous doctor, Aaron Simon, is in attendance upon Louis Katz who is suffering from that dread disease, diaptumepox, which is caused by space travel. Meanwhile, interne George Grimm and three nurses, Judith Ryan, Ruth Pearse, and Marian Green are attempting to quiet Loretta Sneller who is afflicted with phenbiasvy, also caused by space-travel.

This hospital is in a very quiet spot, as it is adjacent to the new 1687½ foot air Terminal designed by Joseph Martin. This terminal is considered by some as the most favorable jumping off place in the world, and as the capital of space travel.

This system provides for subterranean tubes into which the space tubes slide upon their return from inter-planetary space. The inventor of the new space ship is Janice Haight, and in co-operation with her, Mabel Tiffany and Janet Van Derweel designed the special spacuits.

The president of the Planet Express, Inc., is Elma Gallagher; the ship-caller is Eleanor Wolkoff. She is announcing the arrival of three ships: from Mars, the "Majup"; the "Moox" from the moon; and the "Venmer" from Venus.

The captain of the first is Louise Warner; the driver, Lois Buckland. The captain and driver of the second are: Lawrence Snider and Herbert Merlin; of the third, Dorothy Brown and Ruth Larkins.

On the Mars platform are standing: Mildred De Muth, Priscilla Grieme, and Margaret Miller. Destined for the moon are Ruth Cope, Marie Kirchner, and Robert Kuzel.

Those going to Venus (and very anxious to see the fair Venerians) are: Henning Lindgren, Garfield Lovering, and Robert Maisner.

SHUTTLE

The event that attracts the travelers to Mars is a bull-fight which is to take place in Spainmar, capital of Mars. The toreadors are: John Maxim, Kenneth Lockwood and John Nelson—experienced bull-throwers.

On the Air Terminal is a flagstaff which towers 100 feet 1 inch above the building proper. On this Milton Wagner, a flagpole sitter, is attempting to break the world's record.

On the observation platform on the 140th floor, are Helen Greenberg, Martin Judd, Ruth Pietrich and Marguerite Thompson, who wish to see the world metropolis, Cleveland, and the surrounding suburbs.

On the 149th floor Bob Radebaugh, a wealthy business man, has his offices; his secretary is Florence Walko. Several sales-people have been "called on the carpet." Izora Devor, Zelda Garber, and Charles Higley. They were admitted by Roy Pinyoun, the office boy.

In this same building, on the 130th floor, are found the Taylor-Fiore Realty offices, owned by Mary Jane Taylor and Evelyne Fiore. They are philanthropical and have, in the past, endowed several homes: The Home for Decrepit Gold Fish, managed by Benjamin Purvin; the Home for Aged Members of the Observer Staff, headed by Hilda Seaman; and a Home for Persecuted Fish Worms, managed by Frances Wolfram.

Ah! Way down on the 99th floor I see a barber shop, owned by the company. Three dazzling men have just entered, clothed in the latest rage—velvet suits. They are Arvin Scharer, Charles Verigan, and Theodore Thorward."

A pause, the Yogi stops. Then—"Ah, I see Hollywood, still as glamorous as of old. It is the "Our Gang Comedy" set. Having received directions from William Henderson, the director, the cast retires to dress for the filming of their new comedy, "Comfuntion." Ruth Hervert is the camerady, who is rapidly rising to prominence in this field. Now the players wander into the set: Patsy Brown, Doris Pocock, Jean Harp, Lavette Watterson, William Such, Robert Miles, and James Lineker.

A rising young actor is Allen Hadlow who has come to Hollywood after many years of posing for the Van Heusen collar ads.

The matinee idol of the day is James Hiscock, but his position is endangered by Sumner Mensforth, who is fast approaching stardom.

Elizabeth Basler, Margaret Lenox, Dorothy Nunemaker, and Reva Van Horn are fading movie stars and are now angling for millionaires in the persons of Philip Merkel, Walter Patterson, and Herbert Wiepking.

Now I see a Paris bound ship, skimming over the Atlantic waves at the rate of 200 miles per hour. This terrific rate of speed is made possible by the queer fish-tail propeller which moves rapidly from side to side and thus forces a passageway. The ship is privately owned, being the property of Howard Ott. The officers and the crew are as follows:

Captain, Phillips Bosworth; first mate, Katherine Barry; second mate, Mary Ann Crooks; coal-heavers, Patrick Graham and Phillip Hadsell; crew members, Harriet Berkey, Frances Carter, and Emerick Hennel. The chief mechanic, Thelma Benawit; the chef, Evelyn Hecht; a servant, now peeling onions, Margaret Hawkins; maids, Marjorie Corbett, Anna D'Anna, and Florence Kockers; valet, Philip Corbusier; butler, James Miller; and serving maids, Helena Benesh, Doris Cahn, and Betty Morgan.

The prominent guests are: Jean Becker, Marjorie Copperman, Elizabeth Laffer, Harlow Kluge, and Carl Marting.

Now I see Paris! Waiting at the stage door of the Folies Bergere are: Neil Flynn, Earl Wardle, Ransom Whitney, John Gifford, Arthur Zola, and Emden Schulze.

They are apparently waiting for Marian Cadle, Sue Eastwood, and Betty Finley who dance there—and very prettily, too. Ah; here are the ladies—and Mr. Gifford calls three taxis manned by Wallace Nau, Edward Ryan, and William Sloan. After they have entered the taxis, six gay blades recite in unison, "To the Stale Cheese, driver." This is a night club in which Blanche Bredenberg is hostess.

SHUTTLE

Lawrence Shapero's orchestra is playing Vernon Johnson's new song, "Say Good-night Tomorrow, Darling." The members of this orchestra are: Janet Hornberger, Robert Coppersmith, Deborah Abrahams, Ralph Beach, and Luther Collins. The nasal renditions are furnished by a quartet composed of Selma Cohen, Ada Jane Dennis, Catherine Rubin, and Gwendolyn Lewis. And now we leave the swaying couples and the glittering capital of France and penetrate the mountainous regions of the Balkans to the little known kingdom of Dinkania. Helen Tarasov is the United States ambassador here.

King Harold Arnold has a daughter who is ardently being courted by Rodamon Heckelman. He expresses his emotions in English to Blanche Eddy who then repeats them in Dinkanese to the fair princess.

Near the capital of Dinkania is a deep pit, and it is here that the members of the Case Association for the Advancement of Knowledge of the Earth's Interior, is stationed. Catherine Carraher, a prominent scientist of the day has invented the moledrillbore, by means of which she hopes to penetrate to the center of the earth. This machine literally eats its way through the earth by reducing all materials to their electronic form. Lillian Hanson is the engineer who takes care of the apparatus which receives power by wireless. The leader of the expedition, which is being backed by Charlotte Nickols and Donald Olds is Wesley Hunting. The members are Virginia Howell, Harold Kennedy, Annie Wright, Walter Wolfe, Eileen Watson, Pauline Wallace, John Ward, and Marianne Wachic. There's also a geologist, Edith Parker; a chemist, Marian Walthour; a radio expert, William Schott; an electrician, Clifford Schaffer; and a cook, Lucille Hampe. Margaret Sherod who is an experienced newspaper reporter and Catherine Williams, a philologist are also in the party as some members of the expedition believe the earth to be hollow and inhabited within. The moledrillbore is being fitted with wings and propellor in case it falls into space within the earth.

The Yogi looked at us and rolled her eyes. Then very impressively she said, "Yaka hula hickey dula—$50, please." The calmness with which the room was permeated forbade our complaining. Maybe the vastness of the negro employee had something to do with it, too. At any rate, we paid, wandered into the hall, and as if in a dream, opened the door and stepped into the empty elevator shaft.

Hall of Fame

HONK! Honk!

That's the probable sound of Gabriel's trumpet, on that fateful day when the class of '32 will go to their final assembly, for Heaven or—uh—500° F.

If nominations for immortality are in order (as they undoubtedly will be) we will probably name some of these worthy souls:

Jeanne McCorkle—Because she has a figure "like unto Venus".

Blanche Eddy—Because she is refreshingly enthusiastic and sincere.

Lyman Davidson—Because he is a terrific hitter at the bat (the Ping-Pong Bat).

Donald Cook—Because of his all-around proficiency in athletics.

Jack Albert—Because his faculty for "getting things done" correctly is exceeded only by his dependability.

Helen Benesh—Because she combines two unlike qualities, common sense and vivacity, with unusual success.

Thomas Glass—Because he plays a mean bassoon.

Robert Colville—Because of his unparalleled accuracy in throwing lead shot.

Warden Clark—Because of his ability as a cartoonist.

Joe Bondi—Because he can enter an Austin without bending his neck.

James Goulder—Because he is an excellent impersonator of Amos and Andy (ain't no three ways about it!)

James Hiscock—Because his grades are as high as his spirits.

James Lineker—Because he will probably match quarters with Gabriel for his trumpet.

Allen Hadlow—Because of his faultless personal appearance.

Kenneth Lockwood—Because no one ever said to him: "I can't hear you."

Don Olds—Because his quiet, sophisticated manner has won him many feminine hearts.

Bob Stepp—Because he can carry a football through the strongest line.

Ted Thorward—Because he is destined for fame on the Tennis Courts.

Philip Merkel—Because he is a miniature Tarzan and a budding Rembrandt.

Blanche Bredenberg—Because she ranks first in scholastic standing and modesty.

Betty Finley—Because of her splendid record in school activities.

Don Reynard—Because he ranks as the best pianist in the class.

Jerry Ballantine—Because his popularity with the ladies is formidable.

GENE GLEASON, '32.

The Classes

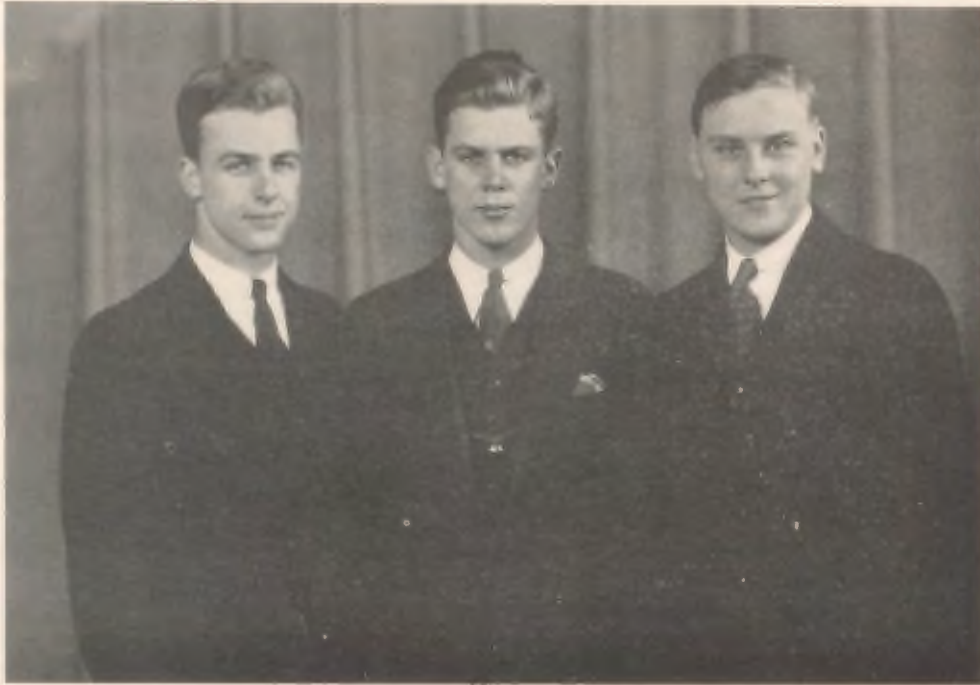

A strange word like "pathetic"
Has a solemn tragic air—
To the ears that hear of sadness
And the hearts that know of care,
But those who have not wandered
Through the books of truths and lies
May never know its meaning
Though it harbors in their eyes.

Sometimes I vaguely wonder
If the classes I attend
Are teaching me to suffer
Or are teaching me to mend,
But I know I am mistaken
As I find each lesson filled
With romance and with power
That must compensate and build.

THE student council is a group of thirty students elected by the student body to assist in the administration of the school. This group of students has charge of many of the activities and has many responsibilities in regard to administrative work. They arrange and give dances, control the Lost and Found, distribute green labels, supervise the point system, and many other things.

THE Senior Friendship club has had its usual large enrollment this year, something which enables us to have better times.

Early in the year, the customary recognition meeting was held in the auditorium with the candle ceremony.

Speakers of interest, including Reverend Wells, Miss Hinebaugh, Miss Gilcrest, and Christine, the Florist, have helped to make the year more worthwhile for everyone.

The regular features such as the Pot Luck suppers; the Christmas Baskets; and the Spring Style show, sponsored by Higbee's; were not overlooked. In addition to these, there have been several Vocational Guide Trips, including radio stations WHK; and Ring Group trips, including the Karamir Theater and the Chinese Temple; for those who were especially interested.

The club season will be closed this year with its annual dance at the Central Y. The last meeting of the year will be the "Pa-Ma-Me" Banquet when the officers for next year will take their offices.

Two plays were given this year by the members, the casts of which had the pleasant experience of repeating them for Heights. This has brought the spirit of friendship a little closer between the Heights Friendship club and ours.

In spite of the depression, the club has maintained the usual budget, giving the customary sums to the Y. W. C. A. and to the Shaw Scholarship Fund.

THE Sophomore Friendship Club is for Sophomore girls only and the purpose of the club is to promote a social feeling among its members. This purpose has been carried out this year by many social events, such as: a hare and hound hunt, a Christmas party, a pot-luck supper, a Valentine dance and a Mother and Daughter banquet. At Christmas and Thanksgiving the girls filled baskets for the needy people. The club has contributed to the Student Council scholarship fund.

Heavyweight Football

SHAW'S heavyweight football team, following the disappointing 1930 season in which Shaw won only two games, the "Red and Black" turned an about face and made the 1931 schedule a real success.

Beginning a hard schedule with only four lettermen, Wellman, Eisenhut, Cook, and Hackstedde, Coach Snavelly built a powerful machine which won four games, tied three and lost two. The team proved very capable defensively as well as offensively.

Shaw opened the season by battling to a 0-0 score with a Fairport eleven, which though outweighed proved strong competition. In the second game, Shaw avenged a 13-0 previous year defeat at the hands of East by trouncing the Senate aggregation 12-6.

Toledo Libby then came to East Cleveland and brought one of the heaviest and strongest high school elevens in the state. The Shaw boys put up the best battle of the year, but the odds were too great and Shaw ended on the short end of a 13-6 score.

The Lakewood game was a closely contested one. It was Shaw's first Lake Erie league game and hard as the boys tried to win the best that could be done was to gain a 7-7 tie with Lakewood's fine team.

The Collinwood Railroaders were next on the list and were lucky to even make 7 points in their 12-7 defeat. Very bad weather conditions made it difficult for either Shaw or Elyria to show their power, the game resulting in an odd score, 2-2.

Shaw's next contest was at Lorain where the "Red and Black" suffered the worst defeat of the season 26-0, Shaw could not fathom the Lorain running attack. Rocky River was beaten the following Saturday in the easiest contest of the year, 45-0.

The last game, that with Heights, was all Shaw. The Heights team left the field on the short end of a 7-0 score although the seven points are not sufficient to show Shaw's superiority.

Play On

(A parody on Joaquin Miller's "Columbus")

Behind him lay his own goal posts,
Behind him lay admission gates;
Before him stood opponents' ghosts,
Before him not a chance for breaks.
The half back said: "Now must we pray,
For our cheer leader has sat down.
Oh football coach, what shall I say?"
"Why say, 'Play on, play on, and on'."

"My men grow cold and full of doubt;
My men grow ghastly cut and scarred."
The stout man thought of food; a clout
Of wet mud struck his one shin guard.
"What shall I say, brave captain say,
If we don't make our one last down?"
"Why you shall say, 'till we break way—
'Play on! Play on! Play on! and on'."

They played as hard as teams can do.
Their rivals held like one strong wall.
Why now, not even coach would know
If Jack or Bill or Bob should fall—
For Alma Mater and a gain.
They plugged away till hope was gone,
"Now speak, captain, so cold's the rain."
He said, "Play on! Play on! Play on! and on!"

They played through mud. The tackle groaned,
The large crowd shouts, "Now hold that line!"
They sang our song; oh hear that moan!
And listen to that yell so fine.
Oh captain, pal, oh how they're strong.
What shall we do when subs are gone?"
Why, just the same the whole game long:
Play on! Play on! Play on! and on!

By courage warmed he snatched the ball,
And, dashing through the only hole,
He galloped on, behind him all.
A goal! A goal! A goal! A goal!
It's done, and now by that one rule
He is the campus' favorite son.
He won the game, he gave his school
Its greatest lesson: "On, Play on!"

Lightweight Football

THE 1931 Shaw lightweight eleven made an enviable record. They outclassed all opposition and won the Lake Erie League championship. The team rolled up 205 points to their opponents 14, for an average of 23 points per game. The midgets closed the season with 8 victories and 1 defeat.

Two cups were presented to the team because of their impressive record. One of the awards, the Big Ten Cup, was presented by the Big Ten University Club. The other cup, the Lake Erie League cup, was given by the Lake Erie League. Both trophies remain permanently at Shaw for the lighties have won three Lake Erie League championships, in the years 1928, 1929, and 1931.

With six letter men back, Coach Nunemaker built up a well-balanced squad. The material developed so well that Coach Nunemaker could have sent two teams of almost equal strength on the field at any time. Sam Meltzer, left end, was elected captain of the 1932 team succeeding Bob Radebaugh.

The opening game of the season, the only game Shaw lost, was dropped to a heavy John Hay varsity 8-6. In the second contest, Shaw trampled University's Junior Varsity 38-0. Lakewood, the first Lake Erie League foe, was downed 26-0. Mentor, next on the schedule, was held scoreless by the rampaging Shaw lighties who ran up 39 points.

A new rival, Garrettsville, was toppled in a close contest, 6-0. Elyria also proved hard losers, but Shaw defeated them in a torrid battle, 9-0. Lorain, another out of town team, was overpowered by the determined Shawites, 13-0.

Shaw invaded Rocky River and rode to an easy victory over a fighting Rocky River aggregation.

In the last game of the season with Shaw's traditional rival, Heights, the "Black and Red" rang up an impressive 39-6 victory.

THE baseball team again met with pronounced success during the 1931 season, although Lakewood beat out the Red and Black for the top position in the Lake Erie league race, Shaw coming in second. In the eighteen game schedule, Shaw won 13 games, losing but 5.

The excellent pitching of "Bill" Smith and "Gillie" Kersey was hard to beat, while the batters, led by Captain Pfahl who had a final percentage of .410, did exceptionally well. The infield with Lewis at first base, Shafer at second, Berry at short, and Peckinpaugh and Meltzer alternating at third was well balanced and proved very capable. Pearce and Herkner alternated at catching, both doing fine receiving and batting. Nook, Hugger, and Pfahl took care of the outfield in fine style.

To close the season, Shaw played two games with Lane Tech of Chicago. The game at Chicago was postponed because of rain, necessitating a double header, which was played in League Park. Shaw won the first game, 4-2, but dropped the second 9-4

THE Shaw heavyweight basketball quintet finished the 1931-32 season in a tie for third place with the Lakewood "Purple" in the Lake Erie league. Cleveland Heights and Lorain showed the way with eight and seven victories respectively. Shaw closed with six victories against four defeats for a percentage of 600. In all, the season was fairly successful.

The Shaw team played a steady game and was always looked upon as a formidable opponent by league opposition. Heights, Shaw's hilltop rival, proved a jinx to Shaw. Heights won both games, 32-24 and 26-20. Lorain edged out Shaw by one basket, 28-26, and Lakewood won even by a smaller margin of one point 31-30, accounting for the other two defeats.

The squad boasted no outstanding stars, however they developed good teamwork. Elwood Hagey proved to be an efficient center and was a high scorer of the team. Howard Pearce was a first-class forward. At right guard Jack Nook starred and Walter Ongert filled the left guard position proficiently.

Pinyoun, Marting and Eisenhut were the other forwards who played consistently for Shaw.

Baker and Peckinpaugh starred at the forward positions with Calloway and Maltby as substitutes.

Don Gottron and Lear were outstanding at the guard positions. Harp starred at the center in the first semester and Nealy and Deming filled the position in the second semester.

THE Cross Country team of 1931, though minus the services of Harold Welch, the outstanding runner of the previous year, proved to be one of the strongest of recent years. Of the four inter-school meets, Shaw's distance runners won three, losing one.

The first meet was with Lincoln high. This was the only defeat of the season, Shaw losing 16-42. The meet was run on an unfamiliar course on a rainy day. However, four days later, the runners came back strongly, beating Glenville 15-40, the largest score possible.

John Adams high also proved a setup for the Red and Black, being beaten by a 14-42 count. In the Collinwood meet, which was the closest of the season and which was run between the halves of the Collinwood-Shaw football contest, Shaw came out victorious, 23-32. The Collinwood trophy was added to the Shaw collection in this contest.

Glauser, Brownfield, and Cardona won places in the Northeastern Ohio meet, Shaw taking third, a position which marked this team as Shaw's finest running squad.

COACH OFFINGER'S 1931 track had a fairly successful season. In dual meets, Shaw defeated Bedford, East and Glenville, and lost to Collinwood, Heights and University.

Don Cook was Shaw's brilliant star. Cook took firsts in the high and low hurdles in almost every meet. He also placed in the shot put and discus, and often ran in the mile relay.

In the Lake Erie League meet Cook established a new record in winning the high hurdles. Welch, after having been seriously ill, made a spectacular comeback by winning the mile. Maxwell tied for first place in the high jump.

THE Shaw Tennis Team of 1931 had a very successful season proved by the fact that it won four of its six scheduled matches. Although Coach Offinger had but two experienced men back for this year's team, he built a fine squad from his many recruits.

The first match of the season was with Lakewood which Shaw lost by a 0-5 score.

The following week the team gained a hard fought victory over the Elyria squad 3-2.

Lorain came to Shaw and won in another hard fought battle by a 4-1 score.

Shaw defeated University school in an independent match by a 4-2 count.

Owing to the fact that the Cleveland Heights team did not appear for its scheduled match, Shaw was awarded the contest by the Lake Erie League board.

The black and red boys closed their season with a 5-0 victory which placed them in a tie with Heights for second place.

Thorward played first singles, Moore second, Silverman third; Gottron and Rubin first doubles, Hagey and Harmon second doubles with Beach, Marette, Ascherman, Sturgiss and Strickard as reserves.

THE 1931-32 Shaw swimming team, composed almost entirely of junior fellows, proved to be the most successful team in recent years. The Red and Black won the Lake Erie League championship and was runner-up in the state meet, being nosed out by Cleveland Heights.

Out of eight dual meets only one was lost, that being to Lakewood by a close 5 point margin.

Bob Boylan proved to be Shaw's one champion. He became king of the state when he won the breaststroke event at the state meet.

Ed Wolpaw proved to be outstanding in the short free style event. Other outstanding freestylers were Sheldon, Reid and Brown. Glenn Hornke, backstroke, and Stewart, diving were excellent in their events.

Student Dies, Teacher Faces Chair

Twelve Students Jurors—Teacher Has Little Hope

Hear ye, hear ye, the case of Mr. Gifford against the state. Mr. Gifford you are charged with the murder of William Henderson.

Mr. Gifford: Well, you can't prove it.

District Attorney: Oh yes we can. We have here exhibit A, (attorney lifts Algebra book) the weapon with which William was killed. Exhibit B is the body, and X marks the spot where the body was found. Now let the murderer be G.

Mr. G.: That is easy, in the equation $A+B+C=X$, solve for C, the murderer. You should really use X for the murderer, and C to mark the spot, because the murderer is the unknown.

D. A.: But the newspaper men, they will revolt, they always use X to mark the spot. It is a tradition.

Mr. G.: I will now solve the equation. (Mr. Gifford figures for a moment.)

D. A.: Who did it?

Mr. G.: You did.

D. A.: (Aghast) I?

Mr. G.: I didn't say I, I said you.

D. A.: You?

Mr. G.: No, you!

D. A.: I didn't do it.

Mr. G.: Figures don't lie. Do you see any error in my work?

D. A.: (Looks at maze of figures) No.

Mr. G.: Then you admit your guilt?

D. A.: Well, in the face of such math., I have no choice, I suppose I must have done it.

Mr. G.: Let's ask Bill who killed him.

D. A.: But he is dead.

Mr. G.: That doesn't matter, I'll wake him up as I did in Algebra class.

D. A.: (Doubtfully) We can try.

(Enter men with body on stretcher.)

Mr. G.: (Looking at body) Bill, is there a difference between (-2) squared and (-2) squared?

(Body rolls over with a grunt and tosses restlessly. Looks at Mr. Gifford with glassy stare.)

Mysterious Explosion Burns Student Slightly, Shakes Tech Building

Warden Clark was burned slightly by a mysterious explosion in room 818; the cause of the explosion was unknown.

Warden was unable to throw any light upon the cause of the explosion. He said, "I made a mixture of nitric acid and sulphuric acid. To this mixture I added some glycerine."

Bill: I think that I have heard that somewhere before. Can I not find refuge even in death?

Mr. G.: You are no leader now than you were in my class.

Bill: No wonder, it was a dead class.

Mr. G.: Answer my question, is there a difference between (-2) squared and (-2) squared?

Bill: Can I have three guesses?

Mr. G.: Yes.

(Bill stares vacantly into space.)

Mr. G.: That vacant stare reminds me of old times. Remember the time that I asked you the question about the fly?

Bill: Yes, you asked me how far a fly would have to walk to go from one corner of the room to the diagonal one.

Mr. G.: And you said that he wouldn't walk, he would fly. You don't know your Algebra.

Bill: No, but I know my flies.

Mr. G.: But you destroy the problem when you say that the fly flies.

Bill: Goody, Goody, I love to destroy problems. But returning to flies, it is not natural for them to walk when they can fly.

Mr. G.: That is true, when I die I am going to stop walking.

Bill: Yes, but you will not begin flying.

Mr. G.: I note sarcasm in that last.

Bill: I am very busy. Mr. Gifford, I have to push up daisies will you excuse me, please?

Mr. G.: So long, Bill. I hang tomorrow for killing you, we'll have some good hot times together.

Bill: Mostly hot, not so very good.

(Mr. Gifford enters cell, door clangs and curtain falls.) What! Curtains in jail!

"Unsigned Paper" By A. Nonymous

A group of shivering people stood gazing at a still object on the floor. There was a moment of silence as detective Henderson knelt beside the object. He arose and said, "A terrible crime has been committed." He pointed dramatically at the object on the floor. It was a split ball! His voice rose in anger as he thought of the injustice of it all. "Some no-account rat plattered me in the pan with that," he said. "Whose is it?"

Don Cook, "Is there a name on it?" Henderson tore his hair and roared, "Would I be calling for volunteers if it had a name on it?" "Don Luff, you have a guilty look in your eye."

Don Luff grinned and asked, "Which eye?"

Henderson frowned, then snapped, "The left eye."

Don Luff, laughing, replied, "That's a glass eye."

Henderson, "Not one student may leave this room until I have solved the mystery."

Did Henderson solve the mystery or are the culprits still sitting in 203?

There are only two ways of finding out. Read the "Unsigned Paper," by A. Nonymous, or go over to 203 and take a look.

Super-Human Samson Hurls Steel Lockers

Early arrivals at school a short time ago witnessed an unusual feat of strength displayed by "Hercules" Bernard Rothkopf who, becoming angry, hurled a section of five foot lockers the length of one of the halls.

When interviewed concerning his strength, "Hercules" said, "I owe my enormous, extremely powerful biceps to the fact that I chew carboic acid in the place of chewing gum."

"I find that carboic acid removes the yellow film (as well as the enamel) of improperly cared-for teeth. In turn, I find that my muscular capacity is increased one thousand (well, perhaps one-eighth) times what it was formerly."

As he concluded this positively amazing speech, "Hercules" tore the door from room 9 and hurled it through a window across the street onto the roof of Prospect School.

"I discovered that the source of this order is not Denmark, but the chimney at Prospect school."

Crooners

You've maybe heard a lot about
Bing Crosby and the rest,
But boy, oh boy, I'm telling you,
Every one of them's a pest.
They groan and moan into the mike.
The love songs they do slaughter.
They sing about moonlight and such,
When they really "hadn't oughter."
If all the crooners on the air
Were laid from end to end,
It would be a darned good thing,
And our troubles all would mend.

—James McKechnie.

Marvin Rubin: No, it's a dog and cat hospital.

Passion

The light of the pale yellow tropical moon filtered through the trees onto the silvery sands of Hawaii. The white-capped surf beat in unison with the hearts of the two lovers who stood beneath the whispering trees. Her silvery blonde curls were crushed against his shoulder. For several minutes they stood thus, like marble statues. Finally she heaved a little sigh, raised her pretty head, and looking up into his eyes, with a quizzical frown, said, "For cryin' out loud, big boy, let's put on the ncese bag, I'm hollow."

Freshman: Why do some of the boys wear their hats in the hall?

Senior: Because the birds are feeling the depression, and the woodpeckers are satisfied with even the poorest of timber.

I'd like to be a senior,
And with the seniors stand,
With fountain pen all ready,
And a notebook in my hand.
I would not be a president,

I would not be an angel —
For angels have to sing;
I'd rather be a senior,
And not do a single thing.

Farewell, dear old Shaw,
I'll miss your study halls.
I'll miss your noisy bustle
Your hurry and your hustle
And I'll miss the penny show,
But what I'd like to know
Is who the heck stole
My fountain pen and mechanical pencil
Not to mention a multitude of other things
That must have suddenly sprouted wings.

Tragedy

Chemistry students always keep an eye on Betty Ridenbach, the smallest member of the class, in case she falls in a test tube full of HCL. That would be terrible, the experiment would have to be done over.

 Pupil: Because it's too long to be a pronoun.

Mr. Business Man:

WOULD all your modern machines or equipment and your splendid buildings be much of an asset to your business if it were not for the brains in your organization that direct their use?

No, of course not!

Then keep this in mind when you look for a printer who is to have the responsibility of showing what you have to the rest of the world.

The finest printing machinery, the finest paper and ink, are as helpless as a smashed egg until brains roll up sleeves and take the job in hand. Fortunately for you and other business men, brains are not hard to "spot."

The Pshaw Snooze

The Pshaw Snooze is a fine anti-dote for insomnia. Just read a column of this wonderful paper and you'll go to sleep right away; if this fails, hit yourself on the head with a sledge hammer — this will be sure to put you to sleep.

One Two Act Play

Act I

(Auto driving along the road. It stops suddenly.)

Driver (getting out of the car): I wonder what's the trouble with this accursed car.

(Driver falls to the ground as an idea strikes him.)

Driver: I'll bet I haven't any gasoline.

(Goes to the rear of the car and strikes match.)

Act II

The jolly tune of a funeral march played by Rudy Vallee and his Connecticut Yankees is heard.

(Pall bearers enter. Grave is filled with earth. Tombstone is erected:

"Sing a dirge for dear old Jaseline;

He struck a match to look at his gasoline.")

Eisenhut Suffers from Concussion of the Brain

Warren Eisenhut succeeded in pulling down a shade onto his head in his home room, 300, where he had been playing with the cord belonging to the window shade. He suffered a slight concussion of the brain. Unfortunately, his chances for recovery are good.

Breaks Drinking Glass, Disturbs Persons Eating

A slight disorder disrupted the routine business (eating) in the cafeteria, late last month. The disturbance was caused by Donald Cook's dropping and breaking a drinking glass.

The head of the cafeteria said that Donald Cook had broken sufficient glasses to keep him occupied for life paying for the broken glasses by washing dishes.

Well, Cook is one student who will not be troubled by the unemployment situation upon graduation.

Fred Gimmel thinks that a penitentiary is a home for old novelists. Well, one could probably find many men in a penitentiary who have written such fiction as "pay to the order of the bearer, ten thousand dollars."

Coach: What is the difference between a six-letter man and a four-letter man?

Frosh: The four-letter man graduated when he should have.
