FOREWORD

THE PURPOSE OF THIS ANNUAL OF 1933 IS THAT OF AFFORDING US A REMEMBRANCE OF OUR HIGH SCHOOL DAYS AND FRIENDS. SINCE WE STUDENTS OF SHAW HIGH SCHOOL WILL SOON SEPARATE TO DIFFERENT PARTS OF THE COUNTRY, BUT WILL BE HELD CLOSER TOGETHER BY THE RADIO, WE MAKE "RADIO" THE THEME OF THIS ANNUAL.

Vol. 19, No. 33

CLEVELAND, OHIO, MAY 10, 1950

LATEST NEWS

FIRST WOMAN RUNS FOR PRESIDENCY

DUPONT, SALOVON SPLIT ATOM AFTER YEARS' RESEARCH

Two co-workers of the University of Illinois, professors Marvin Salovon and Robert Dupont, after years of study and experimentation, have succeeded in splitting the atom.

The scientific world is left gasping, for heretofore this feat has been pronounced impossible. But these Illinois professors said it could be done, and then set about to prove their theory.

The Scientific Association of America has announced its intention of presenting a medal to these outstanding scientists for their latest feat and for their fine work of last year, when they aided fellow professors to prove electricity and matter are one and the same thing.

VIRGINIA BOOTH IS FRENCH CONSUL

As unusual as the presidential election itself, is the replacement of the French consul, a woman, by another woman; namely, Virginia Booth.

Charlotte Mitchell, present consulate in Paris, has asked to be removed because of ill health. The President has appointed Miss Booth, well known in political and social circles as the translator of many French novels, to succeed Miss Mitchell.

The President said, "Though usually our consuls have been men, woman's natural tact and adaptability have convinced me that they are well qualified for this sort of position."

New Idea!

Miss Carrie Di Donato, owner of a coffee shop in New York, has introduced a novel idea.

She has hired several modestes to ply their trade in conjunction with her restaurant. Now while my lady awaits her noon day meal, she may have conferences with her dress-makers.

Incidentally, her restaurant has doubled its number of woman customers.

EDITORIAL

The Crier wishes to call to the attention of the public the sad plight of the railroads. Ever since about 1940 the airplane has solved the transportation problems of the hurrying world.

Come now, America! Surely you won't let that once so useful means of transportation die? Long live the railroads.

OPERA ARRIVES O'ld Favorites Here Again

Cleveland again welcomes Miss Jessie Stephen, soprano, and Mr. Edward Craxton, bass, in that glorious tale, "Joan of Arc."

Miss Stephen soars to new heights in this dramatic and tragic roll, and Craxton's portrayal of her standard-bearer, the Paladin, is heralded by Metropolitan as proof that their famous singer is able to take one of the most difficult parts with great success.

Cleveland's great response to this particular opera is quite astonishing; but the music, the story, and the prima donna account for its success here.

BEAUTY SHOP SUED BY SOCIETY WOMAN $50,000 Damage Sought

Miss Estelle Vogt, prominent New York society woman, has brought suit for $50,000 damage against Miss Gertrude Bell, beauty shop owner.

Miss Vogt claims that she went to the Blonde Beauty Shoppe to have her hair dyed to a platinum color. Now, she says, she cannot leave her house because of the disastrous results.

She has engaged Mr. Robert Behlen, noted New York lawyer, to be her lawyer for this case.

James Roberts, lawyer for the defense, is confident that the shop's reputation and the owner will come out unharmed, according to a dispatch from the United Press.

PETERSON WELL

Admirers Rejoice

"Can an actor never get away from his public?" groaned a weary movie hero in the Rainbow Memorial Hospital in Hollywood today.

Guy Peterson, the bored star, underwent an operation for appendicitis last Tuesday. His surgeon was a Hollywood doctor, Dr. June Cook.

During the operation, the hospital was deluged by women admirers who awaited word about their idol, and continual mail has been flooding the hospital ever since it became known that the "gay Lothario" of the movies was hiding there.

NOVEL SCHOOL PLANNED BY INSTRUCTORS

A novel idea for a school was started last month by a local philanthropist, Jean Hanna, and today she reported her plans were near completion.

Miss Hanna's idea is that of providing unexcelled teachers to the brightest of her pupils so that they may work at a speed unnecessary for giving homework. She maintains a girls' school in a Cleveland suburb where she soon hopes to realize the ideal of a lifetime.

She has combed the city for the best teachers available. She announces that her list contains Miss Elaine Williams for French teacher, Miss Jessie Brandt for Spanish and Home Economics, and Miss Havach for Public Speaking and English.

DUNNING INJURED

Indianapolis, A. P. Richard Dunning, America's foremost autoracer escaped serious injury when his car overturned in a preliminary test for the races next week.

He was going at a slow speed when the accident occurred, and so suffered only slight cuts and bruises.

SCHMIDT AND SCHMIED RUN FOR OFFICES

Frances A. Schmidt and Martha L. Schmied, prominent women politicians, were nominated by the Republicans gathered at Philadelphia, on the fourth ballot, for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States.

The women of the Republican convention were sworn to vote for women candidates, and they kept faith. Never once did they waver toward the less strong men candidates; they even carried states that heretofore have insinuated that they were unwilling to vote for any woman.

The Republican committee also completed the "woman for President" movement by appointing Ruth Strack as campaign manager. Miss Strack is prominent in political circles for her helpful work in the last campaign when she was secretary to the campaign manager.

Meanwhile, the Democratic party have completed their convention at Los Angeles and have dispersed. The presidential nominee, David L. Spindle, and Donald Stine, the nominee for vice president, have retired to their respective cities of Chicago and St. Louis to prepare for the coming campaign.

Miss Schmidt has had much valuable experience along political lines. For the past ten years she has served once as a senator and twice as a representative. Her record is not only brilliant, but inspiring. Even during her high school career she often stated that she aimed no lower than to be the President of the United States.

Yacht Wrecked

The yacht, "Stardust", owned by Miss Jane Warwick was wrecked in a severe storm off the coast of Maine yesterday.

Miss Warwick and her guests, Helen Lohr, Edwin Wetrick, and Bud Bleiler all reached shore safely, where they were picked up by a Trans-Atlantic liner.

Society, Stage, and Screen News

EDITORIAL

It is the policy of this paper to recommend to its readers a course of action concerning important public affairs.

Just now the presidential election is causing much concern among the political leaders of the country. Their plea is: "Disregard the unusual and spectacular in this campaign. Forget that women figure in this election. Instead, base your final decisions on the individual merit of each candidate."

So the CRIER joins the cry. "Vote for value, do not be affected by appearance. If the women deserve to win the election, they do not want to win because they are attractive candidates, but because they are the 'better men', and have fairly won their election."

Book Notes

One of our favorite authors and poets is Marjorie Teasdale, who writes delightful child poetry. The youngsters will love her newest book, "Pitter Patter." The poem which particularly caught our eye is this one, called "Crool Fate":

O have him went,
O have him gone,
O have him left I all alone?

Him can never come to we,
Us can never go to he,
O crool fate, to I
unkind,
To take him 'for, and leave I behind."

Aileen Parker has written one of the loveliest descriptions imaginable of a sunset, "with gray draperies of clouds entwining the glorious sun." It describes her sister's beautiful painting, for Maxine Parker is a popular nature artist.

Fred Price has written a popular sort of book, for it tells how to study chemistry in the quickest and best way. The name of it is "More with Less Time."

Tennis enthusiasts will be happy to see a book by Raymond Lewkowsky on the ins and outs of that sport. He has been one of the country's leading tennis players for years, so this book should be in great demand.

SOCIETY NEWS

Earl Goss opened his newest hotel, "The Five Fingers," more popularly known as "The Palm", in St. Petersburg last night. Don Acuff's orchestra furnished the music for this event, while Jane Mellinger entertained the guests with her original dances and songs.

Among the celebrities who attended the Palm's "debut" were Eleanor McClelland, the famous woman radio announcer, and Margaret Moody, the auburn-haired star of the musical comedy hit, "Bouncing Babes", escorted by the producer of this hit, Glenn Katal.

Miss Marcelle Newman, charming hostess of New York's select society, will give a ball for charity this Saturday evening in the Black Hat Room of the Hotel Derby. Jeanne Hehr and Virginia King, prominent social belles, will assist Miss Newman.

"Ta-ta-tara," will blare the horns on next Thursday morning as the "To Horse and Away Society" stage their annual fox hunt among the beautiful hills of the Adirondacs. Norman Heimerdinger will entertain all the huntsmen at his charming country estate, "Canary Cottage" after the chase. Such notables as Warren Kohl, the internationally known polo player, Ruth Fraley, New York's stage star, Ralph Moore, the Rio de Janeiro coffee king, and Betty Murray, famous horsewoman, will be brought together by this event.

The owner of the undefeated racer, "Buzz Boy III," Aruthur King, announces that he is going to Europe for the season, and is now offering Buzz Boy to the highest bidder. John Henry, Wall Street broker, is in the market for the champion, but no definite settlement has been agreed upon.

Catherine Duber and Dorothy Conrad, popular secretaries of the elite, have been collecting manuscripts and papers of the A. D. (after depression) period. Their museum houses the best literary efforts in which there had been any reference to the difficult years immediately fol-

PETER PINCHELL

Did you hear the latest? Bob Deutsch, New England's crack reporter, tried to amble in on Millie Van Horn, the stage star,—just for an interview,—he says—and was thrown for the loss of ten stories and his dignity. My, my, Bob, didn't you know Van Horn's "Gone With the Wind" and sees newspapermen only to the door? (Even if wrapped in cellophane.)

By the way "Crack Reporter" really means being a "big shot," but this doesn't mean a "Cracked Reporter".

Harold Kennedy, that great golfer, is now sending roses to somebody or something, and we don't mean to a funeral, either. Ever since he saw that great little musical comedy, "Where There's a Willam There's a Way." (Have you forgotten its star?)

Lila Williams, formerly a poorly paid artist's model, has been offered a stellar role in Warner's "Here and There." For a short while she played a small part in a stock company. All this while she was hiding her light under a bushel, when real stars should twinkle brilliantly. How could you, Lila?

Every once in a while this gossip reporter hears something that gladdens the heart. (Aw, have a heart, Mister). For instance, Norman Carlsen's kind act of selling his country home to give a complete library to the County Hospital.

George Beck, the aviator who's taking so many hearts for the ride these days, is flying high now himself with a nice, new, shiny contract to manage trimotor production at the Carabell Airlines. The latter intends to retire. We'll miss you, Joe; are you goin' to Europe?

Well, little Peter's getting yawny, so he'll say as did dear old Peppy, his grandpap's fifth cousin,—"and so to bed."

Following the year 1929. Sentiment for the "bad old days" makes it possible for these girls to capitalize on a calamity.

ARTISTS' NOTES

Eunice Hawkins and Pat Graham, prominent New York artists, have their latest works displayed at the Art Museum this week. Miss Hawkins is best known for her portraits of dogs.

Merto-Goldwyn-Mayer have a new "favorite pair" now. Florence Meech and Douglas Brown both play in Robert Kingsley's great "Storm Haven." But it is rumored by those who saw the preview that Donia Miller, who plays the part of the maid, steals the show.

And talking about great acting, the character parts done by Ruth Kraus and Ellen Kast in the Broadway play, "Secretary Smith," is worth the price of admission alone.

A new dance team of Dick Bolmeyer and Eleanor Easley is featuring a step that is becoming tremendously popular called "Alabama Slide", created by Gordon Weigle.

A new film of the process of refining gold will be taken at the Yarosh Studios. It will be under the direction of the well known metallurgist, Harold Seitz.

Nadine Stoll, the owner of the largest greenhouse in the world, is giving thousands of dollars worth of flowers to her friend, Margaret Pew, at the opening of the latter's Sunshine Memorial Hospital.

Philomena Siena, professor of dramatic criticism at Connecticut College, is opening a new course there in maid training.

Betty Risley, one of Boston's outstanding musicians, is going to Buffalo to direct the Buffalo Symphony Orchestra. Her salary will be something like $15,000 a year, 'tis rumored. But then, money talks you know.

Hilda Baldwin, novelist and playwright has just returned from London where she obtained "atmosphere" for her latest play of English life. It is called "Merry New Year".

Latest Sport Flashes of the World

HEEDER WINS 60 DAY RACE

The "grand old man" of the gruelling sport of bike racing, Ray Heeder, won the race last night that has been drawing crowds of thrill-seeking patrons. The 60 day race proved to be one of the most exciting in bike history, for competition was keen, and the spills plentiful.

Heeder grinned cheerfully as he received the prize gold cup, and said, "It sure was a tough race, but it was worth it."

This was one of the longest bicycle races on record; the cash prizes will be awarded later.

Acrobats Perform Here

Misses Dorothy Woodrich and Alita Wittman, well-known acrobats, are giving a performance in the auditorium next week.

These agile artists have perfected some remarkable and complicated feats that have surpassed even the work of Lillian Letzler, the famous performer of the days way back in the Thirties. Tickets will be 50 cents.

"MISS AMERICA" CONTEST TIES TWO ATHLETES

Miss Marian Tissot and Miss Frances Lothrop have tied for the title of "Miss America" in the contest sponsored by the National Athletic Association of America for the most perfect all-around athlete of our modern times.

The two girls, who have been friends since their high school days, were eager to split all the honors granted them.

Miss Tissot blushed charmingly when interviewed, and stuttered, "Gee, I'm awfully thrilled, and Franny and I feel greatly honored."

Miss Lothrop laughed. "What Marion said goes for me, too."

ATLANTA GIRL WINS CONTEST Finishes With 98.8 Score

At a recent convention of the Chiropractors of America, over 100 girls from all over the United States were examined for the "Perfect Physique." The results have been announced at last; the "modern Venus" has been named.

Miss Norma Quiggle, president of the league, presented Miss Tove Rasmussen of Atlanta, Georgia, with a medal and an award of $500. Miss Rasmussen's score was 98.8.

Miss Rasmussen said that she owed her splendid health to the diet of fruit and vegetables that she maintains, and to the basketball playing she does.

SPORTS IN MOVIES Star Does Football Film

Hollywood is now offering the world something new in sport education. At present Howard Pearce, football star who was chosen All-American two years ago and who has since made a name for himself as coach at Michigan, is under contract.

Pearce will make 12 reels on the fundamentals of football, called, "Football in Twelve Lessons." These will be seen within two months, for his contract calls for the completion of this work in three weeks.

Michigan is now undecided as to whether it is better to keep Pearce as coach with an increase in salary, or to let him go to Yale which is bidding for his services at present.

SCHOOL ENDOWED

Miss Wilma Krug, millionaire philanthropist, has made an endowment of $500,000 to Miss Frances Greenfield's Practical School of Physical Education in Philadelphia.

Miss Helen Barrow, Miss Krug's secretary, acting in her place, presented the check to Miss Greenfield, prominent athletic figure in the last Olympic games.

"I hope this money will help in giving more young people a chance to be strong and healthy," Miss Barrow said, "and help to promote health education among those who otherwise could not know."

Tennis Team Stars

The high-jump record holder of the last Olympics has conquered another athletic field. Paul Oram has taken up tennis in earnest.

In the mixed doubles matches held at Forest Hills yesterday, he and Miss Verna Osgood, United States woman ranking star number three, came out the victors in sets 6-4, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

Coach Meltzer Resigns

Sam Meltzer, football coach at Leland Stanford University, has resigned his position much to the surprise of the unsuspecting sport world. No reason was given for his actions.

Meltzer has been head coach at Stanford for five years, and has made a name for himself by developing the new type of aerial attack that has helped Stanford to come through the past year with but one defeat.

MANY STARS OF LAST OLYMPICS VISIT SOCIETY

Now that the Olympics are over, most of the athletes are leaving China and the Chinkiang Shantung Stadium to wend their various ways home. However, Cleveland's select society is expecting many of the stars to come directly to Cleveland to give an exhibition "Olympiad" for charity.

Among the stars who have accepted, and who will soon arrive in Cleveland is Edward Cartier, the winner of the 100-yard dash and half-mile race, setting new records in both events.

Carl Carison, the athlete who added another yard to the world record for the shot put, has already wired his acceptance to add his bit to the show.

Neva Tucker, who is called a combination of Georgia Colman and Dorothy Poynton, is expected to duplicate some of her marvelous aquatic feats of the Ping-Pong Pool here in Cleveland. She was able to pile up more points than any other individual in the Olympics.

Michael Perna and Charles Mathivet, both (by the way) from Cleveland, have accepted the invitation to show their powers as rowers of the winning crew to their fellow townsmen.

Marvin Hackstede, who now lives in New York, but who was a resident of Cleveland for a few years, has also wired that he is leaving immediately for this city. He broke his own world record for the hurdle race, and came second in high point scoring.

Bob Balstad, who so ably helped the United States Diving Team to take first place, is expected sometime tomorrow.

NEW GRAPEFRUIT HELPS HUMANITY

Mr. Robert Bittle, gifted horticulturist, appeared last night in the Audeo Auditorium, with the product of his plant experiment, the Florida Squirtless Grapefruit.

Mr. Frank Watson, the eloquent and learned professor of Botany from Harvard University, delivered an address on "The Future of the Squirtless Grapefruit."

Mr. Bittle supported the professor's statement, "This type of citrus fruit will minimize eye trouble caused by spraying juices." When certain scientists doubted the remark, Mr. Bittle said, "You need not take our word for it," and invited the doubters to try sample fruit.

Hadsell Retires

Here's an odd situation! The man in New York who poses the most for collar ads is suffering from stiff neck. Phil Hadsell, the famous youth who has made a fortune from collar ads, announces that he now intends to retire.

New styles were successfully introduced by Hadsell, and his famous face is undoubtedly one of the best known in the country.

Scot Stands Guard

Every evening at five, a faithful "Scottie," Tam O' Shanter by name, stands patiently at the main entrance of the Gow textile company, waiting for his master, the president of the establishment.

The cunning little fellow, with a huge plaid bow about his neck, never misses a day, rain or shine, but stands guard with eager eye, greeting his master with wagging tail.

Mr. D. Lawrence Gow, pup, has entered him in the proud owner of this many contests, claiming he is the "finest Scot in the world."

NEW INVENTION Wistar Gets Contract From Airline

Charles Wistar, America's foremost electrical engineer and inventor, has received a contract from the Wolfe Airway Company for installing his latest invention, the mechanical porter.

This remarkable "electrical man" makes up berths, turns lights on and off, and, when installed in the diners, will take orders and serve as deftly as any waiter now employed.

Mr. Walter Wolfe thinks this new device is one of the most clever electrical devices of the year.

"The company plans to use the 'porters' in their new fleet of passenger planes, and I am sure that we shall never regret this move," Mr. Wolfe stated.

Dictionary Revised

The whole English speaking world will be affected by Miss Charlotte Beecher's latest effort. This famous orthographer has devoted several years to revising the old 1935 edition of Webster's Dictionary.

All difficult words have been spelled more simply, Miss Beecher says, "And now even a baby can read the dictionary." She is one of the best authorities on spelling, and it is prophesied that her book will sell well.

There has been much discussion about Miss Beecher's hint that she considers shorter and more direct spelling the only modern thing.

PROFESSOR WRITES LONGEST BOOK

Copy-Reader Going Blind

Lawrence Lyman, professor at the University of Oregon, is now working on what he claims will be the longest book in the world. It is about 2,000 pages, and is not yet completed.

The subject for his long dissertation is "The Placing of the Comma." He is a world-wide authority on punctuation, and puts forth all his theories on the comma in this book.

His copy and proof-reader, Albert Libhaber, is now having serious eye trouble after copy-reading Professor Lyman's latest literary effort.

WILLIAM BRUSMAN "TAKES" MOON

William Brusman has again achieved success. His latest striking photograph of the moon has caused even the most blasé photographers and the general public to sit up and take notice. Mr. Brusman was formerly one of America's better known radio announcers.

Mr. Brusman stated, during this exclusive interview, "A portrait like this will prove very handy for lovers when the weather does not permit the original 'Diana' to appear."

"Day Dreams" Finished

The song writer of the most popular piece of last year, Miss Ruth Berry, has now finished her newest song, "Day Dreams Forever," which the public has been waiting for.

She is working on the contract with Warner Brothers stipulating she is to write all the music for their newest musical comedy, "Here and There."

FAIL TO BREAK RECORD

"We will break it yet," Misses Donia Miller and Mille Kelsey declared, when they were interviewed concerning the altitude parachute jumping record.

They failed in an attempt last week, but are preparing to try again. "I am sure we shall succeed. Miss Kelsey is a fine pilot, and I am feeling great," smiled Miss Miller, the parachute jumper.

WOMEN'S PLANE CRASHES

Miss June Carmean and Miss Marion Homeler of Wheeling, West Virginia, traveling in Turkey, narrowly escaped injury when their plane crashed near Constantinople.

The women were pulled from their burning monoplane by natives who rushed them to a hospital in Constantinople. There they were reported resting quietly after the shock.

January Hall of Fame

SO YOU graduated from Shaw, eh?" the elderly, rather absent-minded gentleman remarked. "And in what year, might I ask?"

"January '33," we replied promptly. Could we ever forget?

"Ah! Indeed? At that time I was a young man, ladies, and a teacher at Shaw. You recognize me, do you not? Ah, well! It has been a long time. But who were some of the members of your class? Perhaps I may remember them."

We eyed each other doubtfully. "W-e-ll" It had been a long time. "Oh, there was - -" one by one, old memories popped into our heads, and we found that we remembered:

Charles Wistar—Because he's been "President" four times in two years.

Marion Tissot—Because, while she may have had numerous encounters with Mr. Lowden, she has had a perfect record of attendance since second grade.

Howard Pearce—Because he is not only a proficient athlete, but also a member of the Honor Society.

Virginia Booth—Because being first in one's class would make anyone famous.

Lawrence Gow—Because (with remarks) although he's Scotch he's very generous.

Marvin Salovon — Because ($\text{Pb}(\text{C}^2\text{H}^3\text{O}^2)_3\text{Ho}^2$) never baffled him.

Ruth Fraley—Just because.

Jane Warwick—Because she's never a disturbing element in the class room.

Bob Behlen—Because he is an Eagle Scout.

Aileen and Maxine Parker — Because you never know whether Aileen is Aileen or Maxine, or whether Maxine is Maxine or Aileen, etc.

Carl Carlson—Because when only four boys out of your class are in the Honor Society, you automatically become famous.

Florence Meech — Because, while she may have lost her heart, she probably never lost her head.

Edward Craxton—Because his rumbling bass would be recognized in darkest Africa.

Frances Schmidt—Because she'd argue anywhere with anybody about anything.

Ruth Berry—Because of the way she can "tickle the ivories."

June Cook—Because of her ability to translate Virgil on the spur of the moment.

Hall of Fame

STUDENTS of the Radio History Class of 1933, we present to you this authentic page from the historic Shaw High Shuttle of 50 years ago.

For your vision and perusal, we now roll back the scroll of time to the Hall of Fame for the June class of 1933.

- Bob Collins—The class president as well as Bing Crosby's nearest rival.
Ed Wolpaw—Shaw's swimming champ.
Helene Pur Dun—For her quiet distinctive personality.
Laurence Perrine—Because of his outstanding scholastic ability and his humorous poetry.
Bob Corning—His curly hair and ability as Hi-Y president are only two of his claims for fame.
Helen Tebbe—She played a mean queen in "The Queen's Husband."
Bob Zulauf—Who can play the piano like nobody's business.
Helen Barch—A genius at math and sports writing.
Bernard Clark—Because of his good-natured chuckle.
Ireanne Lewkowski—For her high scholastic standing.
Hugh Gunn—He looks like an Arrow Collar model and can spout poetry (his own).
Bud Roche—We remember having seen him smile once.
- Mildred Sixt—The platinum blond with a brain and a voice.
Martha Leopard—Her sweet manner has won her many friends.
Evan Edwards—To be editor of the Shuttle is somethin'.
Bill Burton—We have always considered him a perfectly groomed young man.
Harry Kurtz—Among other things, he can draw a mean set of false teeth.
Jean Speed—Who has been so active in the Student Council.
Harley Thompson—Because of his inimitable type of humor
James Phillips—His versatility and genius at argument.
Betty Jane Curley—Because of her beautiful red-blond hair.
James Barrett — He always has a genial greeting for everyone.
Elizabeth Rose—For her ability to rattle off French.
Muriel Patterson — Hers is the most intriguing nickname.

Nonsense in Names

One fine June Day while I was yet very Weiss, I decided to take a walk to the zoo. I Kast the book by Conrad which I had been reading at Rubin(off) on the radio. Through Gates and over fences I went. Remembering I had a call to make, I turned toward a telephone Booth. I stumbled over a brown Wieher lying among Tufts of grass, so I took it to feed the Hauck, or the Leopard at the zoo. Reaching the Booth I tried to get my number. After the Sixt dialing I became angry and muttered, "There ought to be a Law or, better yet a Gunn should be used on Hoover invented these things. Heckman get it right this time." Finally in desperation I rang for the operator. "Nau" I started but the girl's sharp tongue rasped, "Thut. Thut, don't get into a Hoff-man. Uker Hart trouble will get worse." "Burr," was all I could ejaculate. "I want Eddy 0691." At last I reached my friend. I Toll(d) him of my difficulties. He Becked me to see his Newhouse which was nearly Dunn. The day being still Young I Todd(led) over. The Furst thing my friend asked was, "How do you like the Seitz and my Houseman?" I replied that the Hall was planned wrong, that the gutter ran the wrong way, and that the Rose, Zorn, and Berry bushes between the Beecher the oak and the Kohl bin would soon die. He shot back, "It will be all right when the Koch tidies up. That reminds me I need a new Heeder for the front room." "Ouch!" I yelped, barking my shins on the Spindle of a wheel-barrow. "Now I Havach, so I am going home for a Knapp."

June Class Prophecy

EDWARDS INVENTS MAMMOTH TELESCOPE

Sept. 5, 1964.—A radio-equipped telescope ten million times stronger than any other in the world is the latest product of the inventive genius, Evan Edwards.

Without waiting to read more I threw down my paper, picked up my hat, and rushed out the door. A taxiplane piloted by Gilbert Allen was waiting at the curb; getting into the plane we hurried through the crowded city air zones, past air cop Gordon Page, to the observatory of my old class mate.

"..... Another unique feature of this telescope," my friend continued, "is that its range may be curved. Thus we can see around the earth's curvature to, for instance, the north pole. Here, look."

I applied my eye to the telescope and a scene of ice and snow met my eyes. Out of a particularly deep drift rose a red and white striped pole—the pole! It advertised Walter Brandt's barber shop, where I recognized Jean La Fever getting her hair bobbed, and Charles Herzer getting his head shaved. Clark Brown was polishing shoes and Bill Burrage washing windows. In the back room Robert Boylan and Ruth Garwood were playing pool.

Around the corner was John Ingram's gambling casino and Harold Mosher's North Pole Real Estate Company.

"This is wonderful," I cried, and eagerly I turned the focusing dial to New York City. Immediately there appeared a chaos of noise and confusion. Newsgirls, Aileen James and Helen Barch, were shouting the murder of the recent mayor, Robert Craig. The new talking advertising signs were blaring forth the praises of Dr. Gordon Carnes's patent medicine, the indorsement by Margaret Jeremiah of Harry Moody's green lipstick, and the fact that Neal Snowberger used June Day's channel swimmer's grease in his late swim across the Atlantic Ocean. The crash of two autoplanes precipitated a street brawl in which Helen Doud and Glen Lowry were the chief participants. Policeman George Law arrested the pair and took them before Judge Warren Eisenhower. They were sentenced to ten weeks under Sheriff Bill Cozad at the municipal jail.

Down Broadway with its glitter of a million lights, one of Bernard Clark's nickel taxiplanes bore the debonair first nighter, John Forrester. He stopped at Joe Diamond's famous theater where Hugh Gunn's latest musical success, "The Blue Banana," was in progress. Edythe Hart had the lead, while George Hoover was starred in a comic role, and Margaret Bryant and Betty Heckman were in the chorus. A rival attraction across the street was Eleanor Richards' exclusive night club, featuring Gilbert Valentine's dance band, with Ella Mae Young starring on the floor show. A little further on, Tom Patrick's sports arena billed a wrestling match between "Tiger" Jack Martin and Floyd "Throttler" Kuhen. Ernest Taylor was to be referee.

Over at Radio City, mechanic Gordon Richards was desperately trying to fix the wires so the kiddies would not miss George Wiener's daily bedtime story. Meanwhile, Eleanor Noll, soprano, and Elizabeth Rose, violinist, were broadcasting a beautiful duet; Paul Smedley was "laying them in the aisles" as a comedian; and Robert Caldwell was crooning over the Blues Network. Martin Peterman was an announcer.

Looking toward the William Whitworth building, highest in the world, I came across the offices of Dick Lewis and James Phillips, world famous lawyers. Office boy George Reed had just left for his grandmother's funeral when Martha Leopard, society woman, came in with a million dollar suit against the keyhole columnist, John Zapf. She was informed by the pretty secretary, Dorothy Neal, that the two lawyers were in conference. In reality they were up at Hugh Young's roof garden playing miniature golf with Eleanor Means, for whom they had just procured a divorce.

SHUTTLE

In the same building, a few stories below, were the headquarters of Kenneth Martineau's international one cent to $1000 stores; and the rooms of the noted detective, Jack MacClanahan, and his biographer and publicity man, Dr. William Gates. Also in the building were the offices of Lois Hopkins, high class milliner; Richard McCann, gentleman plumber; John Maxwell, undertaker; Bill Peck, ladies' hosiery; and William Schumaker, interior decorator. Robert Johnson was one of the elevator boys.

At the polo grounds, Dean Knapp's Cleveland Indians were playing Walker Woodworth's New York Giants for the world championship. Maurice Rose had just hit a homer and run around the bases the wrong way, but Umpire Frank Lang let it pass. James Bunt was twirling his hitless ball for the visitors; out in left field, Ira Upper was posing for photographer Ross Barnard of the New York Moon, edited by Roy Angel. Centerfielder James Barrett was reading Helene Pur Dun's famous syndicated column in the daily paper; and rightfielder Russell Frye was chatting with some friends in the stands. In fact, the only ones paying any attention to the game at all were batboy Richard Feltham and Harry Hauck, who had found a knot hole in the center-field fence. Ruth Kaiser was selling peanuts in the stands; Paul Schreck was an usher. Acting-mayor Adelbert Glasser had thrown out the first ball.

Turning the glass to the New York harbor, I found Harold Morgan piloting the official welcoming ship out to meet the famed aviatrix, Josephine Sharp, preparatory to a triumphal procession down Broadway. Arriving at the same time was Captain Georgiana Nolan's great liner, "The Mammouth," of the George Pickerell line. Noted passengers aboard were Richard Dunkle, European boxer invading America for a crack at champion Donald Ross; Dorothy Hanner, poet laureate of England; Lady Helen Tebbe, French noblewoman; Jack Thiel, English socialist and Pulitzer prize winner; and Betty Reidenbach, German scientist.

Glancing rapidly over the rest of New York, I caught glimpses of Harley Thompson flirting with the statue of Liberty, Harry Kurtz, sidewalk artist, Grace Thut in a theater employment office, Wynter Newhouse writing one of his best sellers, Charles Neely making hourly death-defying leaps from Brooklyn Bridge, Harry Pickering enjoying himself at the zoo, Helen Wimer tearing her hair over the condition of the stock market in Wall Street, Harry Fox and John Tomlinson putting on a dancing exhibition at Madison Square Garden, Mildred Sixt training lions at Bronx Zoo, Dick Skidmore standing in a bread line, and Robert Rhodes gazing longingly at a "Join the Navy" sign.

I now turned the telescope to Washington, D. C., where I discovered, soundly sleeping at his desk in the Capitol, the president of the United States, Fritz Zorn. Sleeping equally soundly at their desks in the Senate chamber were Vice-president Elinor Zorn; Senators Eleanor Schneider, Ruth Hardy, Lloyd Martindale; and janitor Bill Taylor. The cause for their slumbering was an oration by Robert Wurzman. In the other house Bob Zulauf was entertaining the representatives with a piano solo, and Speaker Helen Martley was keeping time with her mallet. In the Supreme Court, Grace McGonigle was throwing spit balls at Attorney-general Ruth Carman who was making an impassioned plea in behalf of the alleged counterfeiter, Ed Swindeman. Associate-justices Isabella Peirson and George Booth were making personal experiments to discover whether or not four per cent beer is intoxicating.

Desiring a little foreign atmosphere I next literally focused my attention on Athens, Greece, where the Olympic games were in progress. Robert King was just announcing, in very fluent Greek, the start of the 5000-meter run. It was a terrific race and resulted in a dead heat between George Simon and Laurence Perrine. Meanwhile Dorothy Danielson, famous girl athlete, was emerging victorious in the shot put, and Ed Wolpaw was winning the 100-meter free style. In the stands were Manning Smith, who had lost his amateur standing from flagpole sitting; Marvin Rubin, brilliant sports writer of the Associated Press; and Her Royal Highness Edith Smith, Queen of England. In a nearby coffee shop, Preston Deming and Harry Smith were guzzling garlic which was being served by Betty Madden.

Curious as to what was happening in the old home town, I turned the telescope back to Cleveland. The first thing to catch my eye was steeplejack Marjorie Koch painting the top of the flagpole on the terminal tower. On the square several hundred feet below, I recognized Elmer Brandt as one of the street cleaners, and over at the city hall I found Frank Nicholl among the councilmen. A six day bicycle race was going on at the public hall and one of the teams consisted of Margaret McCaffrey and Gladys Smith. The big event, though, was Mary Sloan's great circus on the lake front. June Shrum was the barker and ticket seller, and on the inside Dorothy Schmoltzer was ringmistress. Marion Hoffman and Margaret Hanner performed ever so gracefully on the flying trapeze; Martha Pennington was a panic as clown; Dorothy Johnson and Jean Cuthbert were riders; Muriel Patterson was a snake charmer.

Back in good old East Cleveland I found Margaret Gleason as city manager and Vera Benesh as chief of police. Dorothy Hollocher was now principal at Shaw High school and Mary Bowman and Elaine Baumel were teachers; Howard Page was football coach. And imagine my surprise when I found Murray Large still serving time in the tard room!

To change the atmosphere a bit, let us look over to the continent of Australia. There we see Ralph Stephens attempting to dissect the huge coral reef off the coast. Norma Saccani is acting as his first assistant in the attempt. Inland, Mickey Schaf is erecting a huge barbed wire fence manufactured by the Harry Barkovitz Fence Corporation in an attempt to keep all the rabbits on the southern side of the fence, the section owned by Donald Crouse.

Paul Reck is trying his best, as the official of Sydney, to keep the rabbits on William Weber's ships and transfer them to another continent or drown them in the ocean. Robert Montgomery, the magistrate of Borneo; Elizabeth McIntosh, queen of Tasmania; and Dorothy Pease, empress of mid-oceania; held a conference at the summer palace of Dorothy Colvin about the matter and protested this move; so the only thing left to do was to drown the rabbits in the ocean. They managed, with the help of Oscar McBirney to get several million off the coast and dump them overboard. This, they thought, would solve their weighty problem. But—no such luck! The rabbits were of the "Charles Thompson species" that were able to swim; and they all swam back to the mainland and scattered all over the continent.

Eileen Rieth thought that she would be original and start a kangaroo farm. To start with she engaged Martha Fair to act as "kangaroo breed selector" and to choose all the kangaroos. Martha went right ahead and did such good "selecting" that she had only the finest animals of the highest class; in fact, the kangaroos became so "high-class" that Eileen had to train Anne Waelde and Ruth Sager as specialized trainers. When Eileen retired to a tamer life, she sold the business to Doris Toll who soon had more on her hands than she could successfully manage; there were several thousand new baby kangaroos and not enough baby carriages to go around. Harlan Gillespie, noted saxophone artist, together with Ruth Giering, the only woman barker at the World Fair back in 1933, came to her aid with the idea of little cars with several trailers on the back of each for the "Mamma" Kangaroo to drive with all her baby kangaroos reclining in the rear.

Now to see what happened to one of our best known classmates, let us look in on Bob Collins, who, thinking to make his fame world-wide, has a very large sheep ranch near the mining district at Kalgoorlie. Lawrence Anderson has the interesting job as first assistant shepherd. All he has to do is to see that the sheep report every evening at the corral, which is under the supervision of Wilbur Denk. Lawrence has worked out a scheme to save himself a great deal of work. He has a secretary, Marie Starke, who takes care of all his business matters, and Marjorie Lewis who plans his social program.

The sheep on Bob's ranch are very well behaved due to the training of Edward Weiss; Ruth Warja has won them over with her huge salt farm on the neighboring ranch.

In Coolgardie, a mining center near Kalgoorlie, we see that the largest mine in the world at this time is being run successfully by Bill Burton. The foreman in charge under him is Arthur Heiss; Art has worked himself up to this position from one hundred and forty-fifth assistant miner. Wilber Bayley is also a miner. Only—his mine does not mine minerals. He is a scientific miner who is deep in the study of Jane Adamson's "Interiorology of Mines." Evangeline Aulph is at the head of his secretaries with Mary Zino running a close second.

SHUTTLE

"Vange" holds the coveted position of chief stenographer and confidant above the ranks of the other secretaries, who are Merle Boyd, a disillusioned maid who came to Australia on a pretext of a travel tour; Elrose Gould, millionairess incognito, trying to find adventure and romance in Australia; Gladys Kern and Harriette Faden, world-wide celebrities in the field of aviation, also incognito, helping Bill and also searching the wide world for romance

Now let us look eastward to the Hawaiian Islands. Bernice Paul and Eleanor Hall are very graceful dancers on the northern side of the island. On the southern side, Jane Thomas and Elena Luci vie for honors. And does Bob Corning go for dancers in a big way! Along the George Ralph Coconut Grove, Maxine Adler is tossing down coconuts from the trees to Vernon Jack who is standing at the bottom with a little woven basket that Sarah Berger made. Chris Garlock is taking a sun-nap under a palm tree and Jane Rose is tickling his nose with a little feather. Russell Brannen is a Hawaiian millionaire who has done much to benefit mankind with his inventions and experiments on the surf-board. Ben Larick is perfecting a new boat called the "speed-racer" and as yet he has only the "racer" part accomplished; he says the speed will come naturally.

On the huge pineapple farms, Estelle Bailus has installed an intricate canning system invented by Leona Albrecht and is "canning the surplus." Marian Dunn supervises the planting; Helen Rothaermel, the cultivation; Margaret Coleman, the harvesting; and Helen Divoky, the bookkeeping system. Colletta Calloway has invented a new sprinkler system which works automatically and keeps the pineapples dampened to the right degree. Vanja Anderson has compounded a fertilizer which makes the fruit grow to an enormous size and Melba Schomaker has a novel method of counting. She gets into her small model airmotor which goes along the ground at an altitude of six feet and counts them in groups of ten.

Genevieve Furst is a non-union workman laboring for the Beryl Burr Chocolate Works. On a liner headed for China from Hawaii we see Lillian Kuritsky, chief inspector of the dishwashers' bureau; Gordon Jobson, head of the boiler room scrubs; Hazel Houseman, head of the brunette stewardesses and Thelma Baxter, head of the blonde stewardesses. Jane Arters is the chief cook and Richard Hanscom is the chief "menuist."

Among the notable passengers are, Margaret Beaton, a well-known traveling saleslady; Marian Beck, lady photographer for the Shanghai News; Violet Burgess, the Duchess of One Long Hop, province of Peiping, China; Robert Eddy, famous violinist; Melvin La Ganke, scientist en route to explore the interior of a jungle owned by Lucille Willson; and Dorothy Heitsman, governess of the children of Mary K. Lamb.

Louise Hueber, an all-around athlete from Podunk, China, is preparing to attend the eighteenth Olympiad. Grace Hastings, her trainer, and Ellsworth Wagner, her manager, are dashing around madly trying to book passage for Greece in order to enter their charge.

Let's look over to San Francisco, now, and observe the opera at the Thomas Crago Grove. Anne Buzzelli, the latest "find" of Jim McKechnie, the head of the Try-It-Once opera company, is putting on a special performance for the under-privileged children at the Adria Diener Orphan home where Dorinda Nau is a matron. Sanford Libhaber is a ticket-taker, and Edith Manzelman shines among the ushers.

At the movie colony in Hollywood, we find Bob Blair, rival to the best male stars; Howard Randolph, assistant stage hand; Stanley Roediger, producer; Desire Coumeig and his leading lady, Margaret Fletcher, who has made a sudden rise on the stage and screen; Genevieve Goesling, rival of Polly Moran; Ethel Martin, costumer; and Zane Power, booking agent.

While looking in on one of the popular night clubs, we see Jack Rodewald, rich cigar manufacturer; Elsie Roth, lady of leisure; James Byers, big butter and egg man; and Jack Van Bergen, still an eligible young bachelor.

Stopping at the Merrymount race track we see many of our old class mates among the crowd. These are Howard Smayda, owner of many race horses; Irene Jaces, young society debutante; John Hyland, wealthy owner of a steamship line; Bob Uher, tennis champion; Beverly Ford, aviatrix; Betty Fiske, housewife; Margaret Zeitz, school teacher; and Don

SHUTTLE

Stewart, struggling artist.

At Twin Lakes, a swimming resort, we find Robert Ewell, fourth assistant golf champion; Rosalind Finkelstein, speed swimmer; Elton Hoehn, caretaker; and at the cafeteria which serves the guests of this resort, we encounter Pauline Jeareck, chief proprietress; Robert Kingsley, chief cook; Ada Linnert, waitress; and Laurabelle Markey, French pastry maker.

Down the boulevard speeds Janette Polk in her high powered limousine, already late in attending a house party given by Edith Liatti at her summer home. Among the guests are Kathryn Melbourne, wife of a quarry-master; Florence Pratt, cousin of a rubber dealer; and Gertrude Prusse, society editor of a large daily paper.

To change the geographic outlook rather abruptly, let us go all the way over to Paris. Along the Rue de la Paix, we see Madame "Reanne" Lewkowski taking charge of the latest creations in debutante fashions in her private salon. One of her most popular mannikins is Monica Perry. Ruth Zirke takes care of all the business and Jack Gilchrist is in full charge of all the deliveries in the New Model air truck which Terry Allen invented for that purpose.

As we go to Chateau Montre we discover signs advertising the two hundred fifty-fourth dance marathon. Participating in this event are Dorothy Alban with Walter Roche and Dick Todd with Jean Speed. Michael Kiraly is aiding Viola Swanson in serving refreshment for the marathoners, and Eleanor Larsen is keeping the official time. They have been dancing for four months and both couples are determined to win the $10,000 prize awarded by Henry Heinen to the last couple left on the floor. In the orchestra which plays for them part time are Gordon Basler, second assistant violinist; Edward Brendza, third fiddle; Carl Bernhard, fourth violin artist; Virginia Belville, eighth accordionist; and Kathryn Morris, soloist. In the other orchestra which is being conducted by Thomas Corbett, capable ventriloquist, are Wilma Weiss, concert pianist; Robert Towsey, trumpet expert; Addah Pyle, Spanish comb artist; Janice Brumbach, tinpan drum expert; and last but not least, LeVaun Carl, acting as Swedish mouth-organist from the Alps.

We now have occasion to look in on an American vaudeville company playing in Paris. Among these who were in our class are Ruth Crookham, tight rope artist; Betty Jane Curley, popular radio singer and entertainer; Jane Stokes, famous swimmer who lectures on the subject; Dorothy Stock, beautician to whom women pay as much as $10,000 for 20 minutes of her advice; and Alice Dawes, magician. This company is playing at the famous Emporium which is managed by Jean Dennis and "re-managed" by Rita Du Montier. Eileen Dorsch is at the head of the ushers and has designed a new type of uniform for them.

Before we turn away from Paris, we must look in on the Hotel Parisian, noted for the celebrities who make it their temporary residence. On the register in the lobby we find many of our friends' signatures. Among these, with the help of the manager, we find Kathryn Fisher, wife of a traveling novelist; Madge Freund, a wealthy broker's widow; Leona Lebow, artist of the futuristic school; Janet Van Bergen, New York society leader; George Friedlander, aviator and inventor; Eleanor Fromhold, known through her advice to the lovelorn in a Danish newspaper; and Ruth Hambly, wealthy bricklayer's fiancée.

In the tea room of this hotel we find Leora Greer, blond "Follies" actress, and Elizabeth Hanthorne, play writer, having tea. As we were about to leave this picture we noticed Viola Furst, internationally favorite entertainer in tap-dancing and piano-playing, about to join these two of her old class-mates.

In the lobby we saw Ruth Harris who works as a hat-check girl, and they say she is "making good" at it.

Boom! Crash! Ow - - - gee! How my head hurts. Strange as it seems, I have fallen out of bed while sleeping, and have given my head a good crack. Regardless of the ill effects of my fall, I can recall with astonishing clarity, the essence of my slumbering dreams.

The Sophomore Friendship club has held many interesting meetings during the past year. A Christmas party, a pot-luck supper, a Mother and Daughter banquet, and an over-night party at city Y. W. were among the social events. Baskets for needy people were filled by the girls on Christmas and Thanks giving.

This year the Senior Friendship club has had its usual good times and excellent programs.

They have had some outstanding speakers: the list containing Miss Penberthy, Miss Coffin, Christine the Florist, Miss Gilchrist, and a representative of "Charles of the Ritz".

A play was given at Christmas time and the usual fun was had at the Pot Luck Suppers. Other features included the Spring Style Show and the "Pa-Ma-Me" banquet.

The Christmas baskets for the poor this year were as well-filled as in past years in spite of the depression.

Heavyweight Football

Finishing the 1932 season with its best record in five years, the Shaw Heavyweights came through with a tie for the league championship. Out of nine games, Shaw won six, tied one, and lost two. Building his team around seven of last year's varsity players and two Lightweight lettermen, Coach Snavely turned out a well-balanced outfit. "All in all," he said, "that was the finest bunch of boys I've ever worked with."

Had it not been for serious injuries occurring at critical moments, our powerful machine probably would have had a better record. When Hackstedde broke his collar bone in the Lakewood game, Mr. Snavely was forced to change his whole style of play. Corning was laid up with a knee injury; and the line lost one of its most valuable defensive players when he was most needed.

Notwithstanding these misfortunes, Shaw had the honor of placing Howard Pearce on the local all-scholastic eleven. Bob Bittle gained a berth on the second team, and two others received honorable mention: John Snavely and Tony Gaudio.

Shaw stepped off to a good start by pounding out a 14-7 defeat over John Adams in the inaugural grid clash between the two schools. For their second victory, our gridgers toppled a powerful East eleven, 13-0. Next came a new rival in Euclid Central, over whom we gained an easy 23-0 win; scoring but two points in the second quarter.

After an open date, our boys were hosts to Lakewood for the initial league contest. Although the Westsiders put up a splendid battle, Shaw defeated them 12-0. With Hackstedde unable to play, Shaw met a foe of unknown strength in Youngstown Rayen. But the boys from down state fell as the others had for our fifth consecutive victory, 6-0.

When Shaw invaded Heights, our jinx of the last few years seemed to return; and we had to be content with a 6-6 tie. In the Elyria game, the team hit its stride and for the first time in league history downed the big Crimson machine, 12-8. This game showed our team in its true colors, for we decisively outplayed the home team in a torrid battle.

The Lorain game was a bitter disappointment. No matter how hard the Shaw men tried, they couldn't make any headway against the Steel City boys. They lost, 12-0. In the final game of the season, Collinwood, the Senate champ, visited our field and treated us to the short end of a 19-0 score. The mighty Railroaders took the Shaw team off their feet with their smashing off-tackle drives and downed the Black and Red 19-0 in the final clash of the season.

Lightweight Football

The Shaw Lightweight football team for 1932 was again the Lake Erie league champion; but this year our boys are sharing the honors with the Lakewood Lighties. As a result of their scoreless tie with the Westsiders, we were forced to be content as co-champions. This year's eleven proved to be one of Shaw's strongest teams, exhibiting strength and skill in every branch of the game. Under the skillful guidance of Mr. Nunemaker and Mr. Vivian, the midgets went through the year without a single defeat. During the season these boys scored 139 points, while not one opponent crossed their goal line.

With eight lettermen returning from last year's championship eleven, the team at once hit its stride and easily outclassed most of its opponents. A great test of its versatility came after the Lakewood game, when seven regular backfield men were put on the shelf with injuries. However, the next week, although it was entirely revamped, the team clicked with its usual precision. Outstanding in the year's achievements was the victory over a heavier John Hay eleven. The valiant defense of their goal line in the Collinwood game, when the Rail-rovers failed to gain the necessary 9 inches in four downs, was also excellent playing.

In the season's opener Shaw handed the John Hay varsity, an 8-0 drubbing, which was the only set back the big Green team received in the whole year. The next to fall were the Bedford Heavyweights who became easy victims to the fighting Lighties with a 25-0 score. Then came the Collinwood Reserves, who took the count to the tune of 34-0. For the first league game our midgets tackled the Lakewood bantams, but the game ended 0-0. In an independent tilt the following week, the Shaw gridders outplayed the East Reserves 12-0 in an exciting contest.

When the Black and Red mixed it up with Heights, there was no doubt as to which lightweight team was superior. Our boys came back with a 19-0 victory over the Hill-toppers. In a hard-fought battle at Elyria, the 140-pounders again proved their mettle and tripped the home team 14-0. Finishing a perfect season with a brilliant 26-0 victory over Lorain, the Lighties credited Shaw with another league championship.

Heavyweight Basketball

The Black and Red Heavyweight basketball team again met with pronounced success during the 1932-33 season, tying Lakewood for the Lake Erie League toga with six victories and two defeats for a percentage of .750. Including independent games, the team won 11 games with two defeats. Such teams as Collinwood, East, and John Hay fell before our champions.

Lorain and Elyria lost two games apiece to Shaw: Shaw 27, 36 and Lorain 18, 19; and Shaw 24, 29, Elyria 23, 14. Heights and Lakewood defeated Shaw in their first encounters, but were conquered in the final games. The scores were Shaw 21, 34, Heights 23, 26; Shaw 27, 29, Lakewood 29, 27.

Elwood Hagey was the mainstay of the team. Shaw's lanky center scored 141 points in the 13 games played. Pearce and Milcoff were forward threats. Balstad and Hackstedde played proficiently as guards.

When Pearce, Milcoff, Hackstedde, and Balstad left in mid-year, John Snavely and Peckinpaugh as forwards, Heinlen and Baker as guards filled their places to comprise another of Shaw's championship teams.

Lightweight Basketball

The Shaw Lightweights brought the first Lake Erie League Lightweight basketball championship to Shaw since 1928. The midgets won seven of their league games and lost one contest to Heights by a 32-31 score.

Acting-captain Ralph Multby was a fine center. Walter Nims and Bill Snavelly were high scorers as the Lighties' forwards. Dick Kehoe and Douglas Gottron played consistently at their guard positions.

When any of the boys mentioned were not playing well, Adelstein, Langer, Deming, or Neely acted as a capable substitute.

Baseball

Another successful season and, for the fifth time in seven years, the Shaw Baseball team was one of the two best in the league, sharing championship laurels with Lakewood. The Black and Red nine won 14 games and lost but 3 in its 17 game schedule.

Effective pitching by Roy Pinyoun and "Howie" Pearce, with heavy batting by Captain Jack Nook and "Charley" Hugger, next year's captain-elect, paced the fine showing of the team. Nook at first base, Swartz at second, Peckinpaugh at short, and Meltzer at third formed a good defensive infield. Pearce and Eisenhut alternated at catching, both doing well as receivers and batters. Hagey, Hugger, and Magner comprised a strong defensive and offensive outfield.

The Council men closed their season against a strong Warren team in the feature game of the year at Warren, Ohio. In a pitchers' battle, the local team was finally edged by a 1-0 score.

Swimming

The Shaw swimming team of 1932-33 had a hard job on its hands to keep up the excellent record of the 1931-32 squad.

The mermen won their first eight meets. Shaker and West Tech fell easily. The next meet was a hard one to crack when they beat East Tech by only 39-36. Akron East, Elyria, Western Reserve Academy, and University school all went down to defeat before the superior splashes of the Shaw fish.

Then came Lakewood, Shaw's old jinx—Shaw came through by the slim margin of one point, 38-37. With only one dual contest to go, Heights put the Indian sign on Shaw, 45-30, for Shaw's first defeat of the year.

In the Lake Erie League meet, the Black and Red splashers took third with 23 workers. In the Northeastern District meet, Shaw captured fourth position with 18 points.

Captain Eddie Wolpaw was the chief point-getter, winning two firsts in nearly every meet. Stewart, Boylan, Cain, Hornke, Wright, and Whitworth were other mainstays of the team.

Track

Last spring the Shaw track team had a very successful season. Mr. Offinger's proteges won every dual meet they entered and showed up well in the various combined meets. Led by Captain John Maxwell, state high-hurdle champ, the Shaw cindermen were invincible. Throughout the season Maxwell was a consistent point gatherer, averaging 15 points per meet.

The decisive victories, won over Heights, University School, and Bedford, clearly demonstrated the team's power. The year before, Heights had completely humbled us; but not so last year. For the first time in years Shaw was able to defeat the strong University School group. Even though Bedford was the champion of the Eastern Conference, she fell an easy prey to our tracksters.

Other individual aces besides Maxwell were Hackstedde, weights; Oram, highjump and broadjump; Kibby, half mile; Kahoe, mile; and Heimerdinger, weights.

Cross Country

Shaw's cross country team enjoyed a triumphant season in 1932, with victories in both dual meets and high standings in all the others.

Coach Offinger built this team from a wealth of promising material. The boys who won places earned them from a large group of competitors. Alfred Cardona was chosen captain of the team. Taylor Kahoe and Roland Glauser were outstanding, always running a good race.

At the opening of the season. Shaw easily crushed East Tech's runners by the score 17 to 41.

In the Northeastern District meet, Shaw won second place with Kahoe, Glauser, Manzelman, Balstad, and Simon placing.

In the state meeting at Columbus, Ohio, the Black and Red harriers placed fourth. Lakewood, Lincoln, and Salem High Schools won the first three positions. In this race, Shaw's leading runner, Taylor Kahoe, placed third.

To climax a successful season, the red-jersied runners smothered Collinwood, 21-34. Kahoe led all the way with Glauser close behind. Manzelman, Cardona, Marz, and Simon, all of Shaw, were following to defeat the Blue and Gray team.

Tennis

The Shaw Tennis Team of 1932 had a very poor season, winning but one of its four scheduled matches.

The first match of the season was with Lorain, which the Lavender team won by a 0-5 result.

The following week the Shawites outclassed a strong Elyria squad, 3-2.

Lakewood, for five years Lake Erie League tennis champion, journeyed to Shaw and won a 0-5 victory.

The Black and Red netters closed their season with a 2-3 defeat at the hands of Cleveland Heights.

Milcoff, Silberman, and Ascherman held the singles positions while Hagey, Rubin, Adelstein, and Weber were the doubles men. Reserves were: Forrester, Sturgiss, Sugarman, Arnold, Mueller, and Stricker.

The Athletic Council was formed to promote girls' after-school athletics. The original group was chosen by Miss White in 1929. Each girl remains a member until her graduation: vacant places are filled by election.

Each girl has charge of a sport. A volley-ball tournament is held in the fall. Throughout the winter and early spring, the basketball tournament is played. Ice skating is a popular sport from late fall to early spring. The girls can engage in tumbling and baseball in the spring. Riding, hiking, and swimming are all-year activities supervised by the Athletic Council.

"Gym Jams", a play originated and executed in the girls' physical education department, was sponsored by the Athletic Council in the spring of '32.

Volley Ball

The major sport for girls in the fall was volley ball. Marion Tissot, a member of the girls' Athletic Council, was in charge of the tournament. Twelve teams were organized, whose captains were:

Seniors—Margaret Gleason, Irene Jaces, and Frances Lothrop.

Juniors—June Finnegan, Bernice Lindenbaum, Wilma Starke, and Marion Volek.

Sophomores—Ruth Essel, Kathleen Feldman, Camilla Geckler, Edith Rice, and Henrietta Tipton.

A round-robin tournament was arranged in which every team played every other team.

Frances Lothrop's team, the winner, was composed of the following seniors:

Madge Freund, Ruth Giering, Frances Greenfield, Ellen Kast, Frances Lothrop, Margaret Moody, Verna Osgood, and Mary Sloan.

The best players in the tournament were selected and divided into two teams, Harvard and Yale. In their annual battle, Harvard won. The teams were composed of the following girls:

Harvard—Marian Allen, Frances Lothrop, Margaret Mulligan, Verna Osgood, Julia Regal, Mary Sloan, and Henrietta Tipton.

Yale—Margaret Buechler, Sylvia Diamond, Madge Freund, Ellen Kast, Martha Robb, Nan Stirling, and Marion Volek.

Basket Ball

The first basketball game was played December 12, 1932. The season lasted from that date to April 6, 1933, when Army played Navy. The best players of the season were selected to play on the Army and Navy teams. April 6 was considered a gala event. The players and the Leaders' club invited their mothers to see the game and to have tea afterward. Navy won, 34-28.

The tournament, in which 15 teams participated, was very exciting. The captains of the teams were:

Verna Osgood, Eleanor Hall, Marion Volek, Bernice Lindenbaum, Nan Stirling, June Finnegan, Helen Hackstedde, Harriette Feldner, Ruth Law, Joyce Shelly, Adell Sutkus, Henrietta Tiptos, Catherine Marting, Betty Hauswald, and Edith Rice.

Approximately 140 girls engaged in this sport this year.

Miss White conducted a course in refereeing for all girls who wished to attend. The girls who were judged capable of refereeing were:

Almeda Brubaker, Frances Lothrop, June Finnegan, Marion Volek, and Nan Stirling.

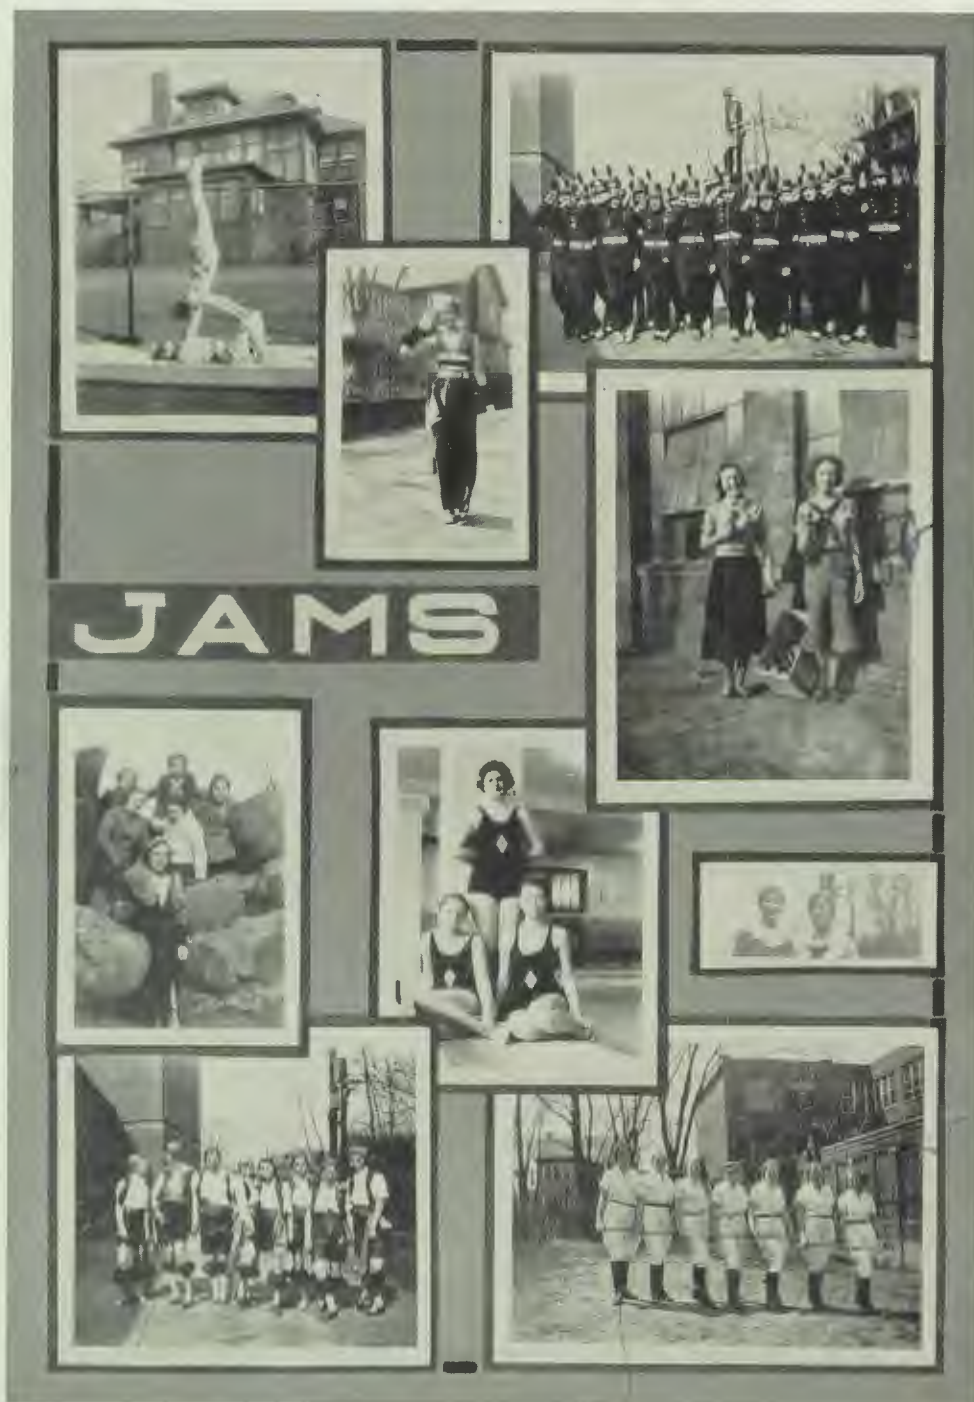

Donia Miller had charge of all scoring. Her assistants were:

Eleanor Hall, Catherine Marting, Helen Pulford, Julia Regal, Wilma Starke, and Nan Stirling.

Life Saving

Senior and Junior Life Saving tests, are purposely made difficult so that no one incapable of saving a life will pass the test. The girls are taught all the phases of rescuing some one from drowning. These are: approaching the drowning person; if necessary, breaking any of the holds which a drowning person is likely to use; swimming with him to shore; carrying him from the water; and reviving him by artificial respiration.

In addition to these requirements, there are others the girls must meet; such as, bringing a ten-pound weight from the bottom of the pool. After Miss Anderson had instructed the girls, they were tested by an examiner authorized by the American National Red Cross. Last year, the following girls passed the tests:

A BUSINESS POSITION

CLEVELAND is within an overnight ride of 70% of the industries of the United States. In this area are many excellent business positions for those who are specially trained. You can fit yourself for a good position and for advancement by following one of the special business training courses at Spencerian. Degree courses are particularly interesting to high school graduates. Placement service is free to graduate and employer. Write, telephone, or call in person for catalog.

The fire engine pulled up in front of a residence. The firemen leaped down and ran into the house and soon were busy with fire-axes on doors, windows, and furniture. A small, meek man looked on. Several times he acted as though he were going to say something to the fire-chief, but he thought better of it; however, the chief noticed him and asked genially what was wrong. The meek man replied, "Oh, nothing much. The only thing I wanted to say was that the fire is at the house next door."

Any girl: "I showed Dad the verses you wrote, and he was pleased with them."

Her foot ball hero: "Really? What did he say?"

GRADING SYSTEM

Our idea of an ideal grading system for the first six weeks after vacation would be to give the best grades to the persons who have forgotten the most during the summer. In this way the whole school would be on the honor roll.

PENWOMANSHIP

Who is this teacher that has the distinction of being told by one of her own pupils that she has three varied types of writing: one that she can read, one that her pupils can read, and one that is a puzzle for even a Chinaman?

Parent: "I wish you'd get 'good' on your report cards, and not always 'fair'."

Howie: "I know, Dad. But the last intelligence test I took showed that I'm an ordinary boy of ordinary parents, and as that is an ordinary grade—what do you expect?"
